236-Acre Project Near Winston Knolls Planned

by MARILYN HEISER

Centex Homes Corp. Wednesday presented a preannexation plan to develop 236 acres west of the Winston Knolls subdivision along Algonquin and Freeman roads in Hoffman Estates.

The presentation was made in a public hearing before the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission.

The proposed subdivision would contain three zoning classifications: single-family detached, ownership townhouses, and commercial. Plans call for approximately 325 single-family houses and 618 townhouses. Over-all density in the project will be four units an acre.

The layout of the development calls for single-family homes in the north end of the project, townhouses immediately southeast and southwest, and commercial uses in the far south near the intersection of Algonquin and Freeman roads.

A COMMUNITY CENTER with a swimming pool and possibly tennis courts, available for use by residents of the subdivision, will be located in the area of the townhouses.

Centex estimates total resident population at 3,837. Of these, 1,285 will be school-age children. Because the project crosses the boundaries of Palatine and Barrington townships, 705 children will attend elementary school Dist. 4 and High School Dist. 224 in Barrington Township, and 580 will attend Elementary School Dist. 15 and High School Dist. 211 in Palatine Township.

The corporation plans to dedicate two elementary school parks to the school-districts and several park sites to the Park District.

Centex drawings for the townhouses call for 75 per cent of the units to have three and four bedrooms. Richard Regan, chairman of the plan commission, said that under R-4A zoning, the classification Centex is asking for, no more than 40 per cent of the units can have three bedrooms, let alone four.

He asked if Centex will request a special-use variance for the additional bedrooms in the townhouses.

OTHER QUESTIONS to be taken up when the hearing continues August 9 were raised by the Plan Commission and members of the audience. They include the following:

—Will there be an adequate water supply and water pressure? What about flooding problems and water runoff?

—Are there enough spaces for guest parking?

—Are sewage facilities adequate?

—Can the additional children be handled by the four school districts?

—Will the additional traffic on Algonquin and Freeman roads require road improvements and new traffic lights?

—Can the Palatine Rural Fire District adequately protect the residents?

The families in the project will be paying taxes to several taxing bodies, including the park district and the school districts. The plan commission asked if residents will be made aware of these different taxing bodies and the varying school districts children will attend.

Concern was also voiced over the design of single-family detached homes being planned. Centex said the project will use the same basic five models now being sold in the Winston Knolls subdivision.

The next pre-annexation hearing will be held at 8 p.m., at the Hoffman Estates Municipal Building, 1200 Gannon Dr. Centex was asked to produce evidence answering the questions raised Wednesday.

HE CARES FOR children, no matter how retarded. Art Clausen of Hoffman Estates has worked part-time for Marklund Home for the Retarded in Bloomingdale for about a year. The Conant High School student helps with the 60 children at the home, all of whom are "profoundly retarded" and many of whom will die before they are out of infancy.

Relief Soon For Rte. 53 Motorists

Relief is on the way for Ill. Rte. 53 motorists with the new Interstate-90 scheduled to open sometime in September.

James Pitz of the Illinois Division of Highways, said yesterday that construction was on schedule and predicted the September target date would be met, barring bad weather. He said work had been delayed by the cement masons strike, but paving has now resumed.

The only work remaining is some paving and shoulder work on the stretch between Irving Park Road and Devon Avenue. When this work is finished, the highway will connect the Eisenhower Expressway with the Northwest Tollway. Drivers will no longer be forced to use the narrow, two-lane Rte. 53.

No figures were immediately available on the total cost of the construction project because it has gone on for so many years. Pitz said the Irving Park Road to Devon Avenue section cost $4 million.

Improvements for Rte. 53 call for the construction of a new roadway paralleling the present road, south of the Northwest Tollway, but not part of the existing Rte. 53. This freeway will be named Rte. 53 and the present road will be renamed.

NORTH OF THE Northwest Tollway, construction on the new roadway has been completed to Dundee Road on what is called Ill. Rte. 53. Pitz said that this section of highway may be given a U. S. route number in the future.

Construction started in 1960. Originally the state was only planning to improve Rte. 53. It was only after construction started that the state began thinking of putting in an interstate route.

The first stage of construction began between Algonquin and Kirchoff roads in 1960 and took about two years to finish. The construction crews then moved to the area between Kirchoff and Rand roads. By 1969 the entire stretch between Algonquin and Dundee roads was completed.

Because the first plan was for improvement to an existing state road, modifications had to be made to the construction to convert it to a new interstate route. Bridges were redesigned to make them waterproof. Thicker concrete had to be poured to handle the heavier traffic load. When finished, the concrete on I-90 should have a 20-year lifespan.

Indict Palatine Builder

by STEVE BROWN

A Palatine man was among more than a dozen Chicago area contractors and government officials indicted by a federal grand jury on a variety of charges including bribery.

Indicted on two counts of bribery was Royal R. Faubion, 1106 Pepper Tree Dr. Faubion was president and general manager of the Chicago division of Kaufman and Broad Homes Inc. when the alleged offenses occurred.

A spokesman for the U.S. attorney's office in Chicago said the indictment alleges that Faubion bribed Lawrence E. Abbott, 54, an employe of the Federal Housing Administration, on May 17 and July 27, 1971 in an effort to gain Abbott's approval for Kaufman and Broad development plans.

FAUBION IS serving as president of American Continental Homes, a subsidiary of American Finance Corp.

Kaufman and Broad officials in Los Angeles said they were not aware what development may have been involved in the alleged bribe incident.

Company officials stressed that they cooperated fully with the Federal Bureau of Investigation probe into the matter. They also stated that neither Kaufman and Broad nor any of its subsidiaries were named in the indictment.

Faubion joined Kaufman and Broad in 1969. He was formerly a vice president for Cambron-Kendall, a Louisville building company.

The federal indictment alleges Faubion gave Abbott $800, three cases of liquor and a money clip in the two bribery incidents.

BARRINGTON SQUARE in Hoffman Estates, Pepper Tree Farms and Heatherlea are among the local Kaufman and Broad developments.

The company is recognized as one of the largest home builders in the Chicago area.

Another former Kaufman and Broad official, Maurice Sanderman of Highland Park, was also indicted for bribery.

Abbott and the three other indicted FHA officials have been suspended without pay.

Art's Special Kind Of Job

by WANDALYN RICE

Most of the children Art Clausen works with will never walk, never utter an intelligible word and will die before they are out of infancy.

But nevertheless the 17-year-old Hoffman Estates boy speaks of them with obvious fondness.

"The first day I worked here, I really didn't like it," he said. "That night I called to say I wouldn't be back and nobody answered the phone. So I came back and the second day was different. There was a little girl named Susie who started to respond to me and after that I had a reason to come back."

Clausen has spent about a year working at the Marklund Home for the Retarded in Bloomingdale, first as an unpaid volunteer and now as a nurse's aide. He changes diapers and generally helps with the children, most of whom are bedridden and hopelessly retarded.

AMONG THE children on a recent afternoon was a 12-day-old infant who was born with a large portion of the brain exposed. The infant was expected to die.

Another was Wanda, an 11-year-old hydrocephalic, her body still small enough to fit in an infant's crib and her head misshapen. She had not been expected to live beyond three months, and each day brings her closer to death.

About 50 per cent of the children brought to Marklund die and the rest generally progress to other institutions as they grow older. Clausen, along with the rest of the paid staff of 55 and 70 volunteers, accepts the reality of the children's plight.

"I've never been here when a child has died," he said. "but I've left one day and come back another and the child's been gone. It's something you live with."

Clausen decided to go to work at Marklund last summer because "I wanted to do something useful one summer before I had to go to work. Last summer was a good one because I didn't need the money."

He made inquiries at several homes and schools for retarded children, a field he was interested in because he has a brother who is retarded.

FINALLY he settled on Marklund, where he is the only man on the staff except for director Stan Haverkampf. This year he became a nurse's aide so he could draw a salary for the work.

"The work is hard and I'm sure I could get a job that would be easier and pay more," he admits, "but every day when I get in the car to go home I think of things that have happened during the day and feel good. That makes it worth it."

Haverkampf frankly admits he is amazed by the boy's dedication. "He wanted to volunteer last year and I wanted to also put him on the maintenance staff so I could pay him something. I had to fight with him to give him money," he said.

This year, Clausen is working for money, but, Haverkampf said, has cut back his working hours and his paycheck because "my family needs me."

"This kid is completely selfless," Haverkampf said. "I've never seen one like him."

CLAUSEN said he doesn't think he will make a career of working with the retarded, though he has thought about it. "My real interest is journalism," he said.

Auto In Collision With Squad Car

A Schaumburg Police Department patrol car responding to an emergency request for assistance from another squad car was involved in an accident at 9:23 a.m. yesterday at Higgins and Meacham roads.

The squad car, driven by Patrolman James Kuzel, 28, was southbound on Meacham, turning left to proceed eastbound on Higgins Road, with its siren blowing and lights flashing, said State Trooper G. L. Leming. A northbound auto driven by Mrs. Dorothy Kanehl, 36, of Hanover Park, collided with the patrol car at the intersection, said Leming.

Mrs. Kanehl was charged with failure to yield to an emergency vehicle. She is to answer the summons Sept. 27 in Mount Prospect branch of the Circuit Court, said Leming.

Mass Transit Systems Debated

City Hits 'Interference' With CTA

by ANNE SLAVICEK

Alternative plans for a mass transportation system in the Chicago Metropolitan area were debated yesterday before a susbcommittee of the state commission for economic development.

The hearings were dampened shortly before noon when a representative of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley said the city opposes state interference with the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) and other mass transportation within the metropolitan area.

The city's opposition brought additional importance to one of the three proposed legislative bills which would establish a suburban area transportation system excluding the City of Chicago.

The commission heard testimony from state and federal officials, commuter railroad companies, the City of Chicago and CTA, suburban bus firms, a coalition of suburban governments and the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC). Various citizens' groups, business firms and organizations of businessmen also testified before the subcommitttee.

The subcommittee will make recommendations to the governor and the state legislature on plans for a unified mass transportation system in the Chicago metropolitan area.

State Rep. Paul Randolph,, R-Chicago, who chaired the meeting, is the chief sponsor of one of the three bills proposing a solution to the mass transportation problem.

The majority of those who testified supported Randolph's bill for a Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System (CMATS).

The bill calls for one agency to supervise mass transportation within the six-county metropolitan area.

STATE REP. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and State Rep. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, testified on behalf of their two bills which are alternative solutions to the area's mass transit problems.

Schlickman's proposal would create a Metropolitan Transit Authority (MTA) to expand the CTA into the suburban area. He called for use of NIPC as the planning agency for mass transportation.

Glass, whose bill would create the Suburban Mass Transportation Authority (SMTA), said he feels unification in the suburban area must be achieved before the suburbs can join with the CTA for an area-wide system.

Rep. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, speaker of the Illinois House, came out in support of the consolidation of all mass transit operations in the metropolitan area under a single authority. Blair declined to endorse any the of the three existing bills, however.

Blair's testimony, along with comments from others, seemed to indicate that a consolidated bill incorporating the best features of all three proposals may be introduced when the legislature reconvenes.

Alan Boyd, president of the Illinois Central R.R., endorsed the CMATS proposal on behalf of all six commuter railroads serving the Chicago area.

Boyd said the railroads would not oppose changes in the CMATS plan, such as altering means to finance the agency.

E. F. BOSLEY, representing suburban bus firms, recommended utilizing the existing mass transit districts and reimbursing individual carriers for their losses. He said the bus firms "do not want to be forced out of private business."

George Karambles, CTA operational manager, expressed concern that none of the proposed legislation has provided an adequate means of financing an area mass transit system.

Howell J. Holloman, president of the Village of Lombard, said suburban communities on a subcommittee of the Council of Governments of Cook County are supporting the SMTA bill. He said without equality of representation for both the city and the suburbs in any mass transit governing agency, "there can be no successful marriage."

State Rep. Brian Duff, R-Wilmette, called for the apportionment of the entire state into regional transportation districts under one agency.

A statement made on behalf of Sen. Charles Percy called for enactment of the CMATS proposal.

Others to testify at the hearings included spokesmen for the Chicago and North Western Ry., the League of Women Voters, the Save Our Suburbs Committee, Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and the United Transportation Union, the the Greater Lake County Mass Transit District.

Others represented the Greater Michigan Avenue Association, the Chicago Metropolitan Planning and Housing Council, the Illinois Department of Transportation, the U. S. Department of Transportation, the Ford Motor Co., and the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry.

A REPRESENTATIVE of Mayor Daley yesterday sharply criticized suburban areas for not developing their own public transportation operations.

Milton Pikarsky, city commissioner of public works, termed proposed legislation a "takeover of the CTA."

Pikarsky spoke for the Commission on Economic Development.

He said merging the CTA and suburban transportation systems "would be like mixing apples and oranges."

The Daley spokesman said local citizens through use of home rule powers should create their own mass transportation authority to combine community efforts.

Pikarsky said all proposals to date would take control of the CTA and other mass transit agencies away from local citizens and place it with the state.

Mass transit "is a local and regional function and is not a prerogative of the state," he said. He called for federal and state revenue and matching funds as well as financial commitments from local government to finance mass transportation.

"Chicago is the only local unit of government that has accepted its financial responsibility for assistance to public transportation," he said.

New Hanrahan Trial Twist

Black Panther In Raid May Have Been Informer

CHICAGO (UPI) — An attorney defending police raiders hinted Thursday that one of the Black Panthers in the weapons raid case may have been a police informer.

Attorney John P. Coughlin alluded in court to reports that information may have been fed to police by Panther Louis Truelock, the only occupant of the raided apartment to have signed a statement admitting he fired shots at police.

Survivors of the pre-dawn Dec. 4, 1969 raid have charged that an informant tipped police to an arms cache in the West Side apartment, but this was the first time attorneys for police have acknowledged the possibility.

THE SUGGESTION added a new dimension to the trial of Cook County State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan and 13 codefendants.

The defendants are charged with conspiracy to alter and conceal evidence about the raid in which Panther leaders Mark Clark and Fred Hampton were killed. Four of the seven other Panthers in the apartment were wounded.

Truelock was not injured in the raid.

The police informant angle was revealed in questioning by Coughlin of Francis Andrew, a member of the law firm that took statements from Truelock and at least three other survivors of the raid.

In those statements, which turned up in court for the first time last Friday, Tuesday, Truelock said he fired two shots at police raiders. The other Panthers, who unlike Truelock did not sign their statements, admitted having weapons in hand but denied firing shots.

COUGHLIN, representing the deputy police superintendent who led the raid, asked Andrew "have you ever been informed that Louis Truelock was suspected of being a stool pigeon for the Chicago police department in the Black Panther party?" Andrew admitted that he had heard that rumor.

Later Coughlin asked Andrew if at the time Truelock's statement was taken "had you been informed that Truelock was suspected of having tipped off police to weapons in the apartment." Andrew replied that he had "heard discussions about that."

Andrew told Coughlin that he did not recall reading Truelock's statement admitting that he fired shots at police. But he told Coughlin that despite the statement he did not believe that police were fired on by the Panthers.

Asked by Coughlin if he, as a lawyer, saw any conflict between representing Truelock and other Panthers, Andrew replied: "Precisely, sir."

Taxpayers May Get Bigger Child Care Break

Employed taxpayers with child care expenses may get a bigger tax break in 1972, according to Roger C. Beck, district director of Internal Revenue Service for the northern Illinois area.

The Revenue Act of 1971 has greatly liberalized the deduction for the care of children, disabled dependents and disabled spouses. Beginning in 1972, taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes of $18,000 or less may be able to deduct up to $400 per month for household and dependent care expenses.

The deduction is reduced 50 cents for each dollar of income more than $18,000. For example, a taxpayer with an adjusted gross income of $20,000 would be limited to $3,800 (the maximum annual deduction of $4,800 less one-half of $2,000).

To qualify, a taxpayer must be employed and provide more than half the cost of maintaining a household for a dependent child under 15, a disabled depandent of any age, or a disabled spouse, Beck added.

FOR THE FIRST TIME, household expenses incurred to permit the taxpayer to be gainfully employed may also be deducted. For example, amounts paid for the services of a maid, cook or other domestic help can qualify.

Expenses incurred outside the home for the care of a child under 15 (as, for example, in a day care center) may also qualify. However, expenses outside the home are limited to $200 per month for one child, $300 for two children or $400 for three or more children.

However, these expenses shall not include educational expenses incurred for a child in the first or higher grade.

If a deduction is claimed for the care of a disabled dependent, the deduction must be reduced by the amount by which the total of the dependent's adjusted gross income and any nontaxable disability payment he receives exceeds $750. In the case of a disabled spouse, the expenses must be reduced by nontaxable disability payments.

As under the old law, a deduction may not be taken for payments to anyone who could be your dependent.

Taxpayers must itemize deductions in order to claim child care expenses. As with all itemized deductions, good records must be kept and expenses documented.

Officials Find No Easy Solutions

Flooding Is A 'Fact Of Life'

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Recurring flooding problems in at least three areas of the village will probably continue to occur if future rains are as heavy as those of the past one and a half months.

Three residents with particular problems have been told by builders and village officials that flooding is a "fact of life" when rains are excessive, and that where possible, something will be done to alleviate the situation.

A DRAINAGE ditch in back of her home at 235 Wakefield is the concern of Mrs. Florence Gesiakowski, who complains that a culvert is pointed in her direction rather than toward the creek.

THE CULVERT drains new homes on higher ground near her home, and the pressure during heavy rains causes a drain in her front yard to back up and flood the front yard because the side swail cannot carry water as it should.

"My property is being washed away," Mrs. Gesiakowski said, pointing to soil erosion and bare tree roots by the creek. She says it is impossible for her to cut the grass by the creek, especially on the 20-foot village easement banking the creek.

Village Eng. Joe Zgonina said the ditch was dredged, and about 12 truckloads of soil taken away. The soil could not be given to the homeowners, as requested by Mrs. Gesiakowski, because a dump truck would have to drive across her yard to do the work.

Zgonina said the public works department is planning to rent a grade-all machine which will reshape and clean all creeks in the village. "We'll spend what it takes," he said.

MRS. GESIAKOWSKI had asked that the culvert feeding the creek be pointed in another direction, but Zgonina said it is impossible to bend or change the flow of the water into the creek.

"The property has probably eroded around the culvert, and it looks as if it is pointed in her direction," Zgonina said, while promising to "take a look at it."

He also said the banks of the creek will be reshaped and stabilized which should alleviate flooding in the area, though the engineer cannot make any guarantees for exceptionally hard rains.

Mor-Well Builders were expected to complete a report this week on storm sewer extensions in Timbercrest. Residents have complained of standing water on Ashwood Drive which they say is the fault of Mor-Well. The company did dig a trench to drain the one-acre pond which has been three feet deep over the summer.

Residents have charged that Mor-Well broke drainage tiles during construction which caused the problem. Schaumburg's village manager, John Coste, said he had no knowledge of broken tiles, but called the area "a natural low that never does completely drain."

EARLIER THIS month, the village requested that Mor-Well finance a $3,500 storm sewer extension from Hazel and Beech drives to property bordering the subdivision which is owned by Paul Rosenwinkel, a local farmer.

Mor-Well's engineers have been investigating the situation in recent weeks, and according to Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) regulations, they must provide adequate storm drainage facilities.

A third situation is of special concern to Mrs. Karen Russell, 1411 Elmhurst, whose car flooded during the last heavy rains while parked on the street in front of her home. Her home is at the lowest point of the Sheffield Park East subdivision. She said the water was eight feet from her front door as well as standing in her back yard.

Gerry Harker from Levitt Builders said the situation should be greatly alleviated when the 1½ inches of surface asphalt is laid in early August.

"You can't build 350 homes and effect instant maturity and stability," he said. Most of the homes in the area are less than nine months old.

HE SAID the backyard of the home will be made to meet the plan specifications for grading and ditching which are adequate to the village's satisfaction, but that the flooding is only temporary, and caused by excessive rains on land where grass and topsoil are not stabilized and trees are young.

Topsoil washing into the drain has reportedly caused backup of the drain and flooding in the street as well as improper drainage of the Russells' backyard.

Since the street has not yet been accepted by the village, Zgonina said his office will supervise the work and will conduct the usual punch-list inspection before the street is accepted.

Hoffman Estates Weighs Alliance With Water Agency

Purchasing water instead of drilling for it may be in the future of Hoffman Estates.

At this week's village board meeting, trustees took note of an allocation by the Illinois Division of Water Resources Management of water to DAMP, an intergovernmental agency comprised of Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

It may be possible, suggested Mayor Frederick Downey, for Hoffman Estates to apply for and be granted either a share in the DAMP allocation or a similar allocation of its won. Or, he suggested, the village could purchase the water from DAMP, through an allocation approved by that agency.

George Longmeyer, village manager, is to invite DAMP representatives to meet with the board.

Village Public Works Supt. John Hossack pointed out a consultant's water study report suggested the village look into means of buying Lake Michigan water. Chicago will sell such water, but pipes it only to City of Chicago limits. The village would have to find a means of getting it to Hoffman Estates, perhaps through an arrangement with other villages along the route.

THE TRUSTEES have discussed in the past the possibility that water found underground, through the village-owned and operated well system, fay eventually run out, especially since so many villages get their water from the same source. A purchase arrangement could either supplement or replace what may be a diminishing supply, officials have suggested.

Even should the purchased water be a complete replacement for wells, said Hossack, the village would need to maintain its storage facilities. Any break in the water mains between Chicago or another source and the village could leave Hoffman Estates dry unless it had adequate storage, he said.

Arm Police With Animal 'Stun Gun,' Resident Asks

A Schaumburg resident proposing legislation to control and regulate cats in the village also has proposed police be armed with a "stunning" gun for use in animal capture.

Appearing before the safety and health committee Wednesday, George Daugherty called for adoption of an ordinance making rabies innoculation mandatory for cats. The ordinance would also restrict the animals to owners' property.

Earlier this month Daugherty suggested the village board adopt a control ordinance similar to a law in effect in Evanston.

Safety and health committee members have referred Daugherty's suggestion to the Schaumburg Board of Health and are obtaining an opinion from Village Atty. Jack Siegel, who wrote the Evanston ordinance, concerning enforcement of the cat control.

Daugherty also feels that police, while acting as animal wardens, should be armed with a gun designed to render suspicious animals temporarily helpless with a nicotine tranquilizer.

In other business, the committee heard a report from Ed Scala, chairman of the health board, concerning a health fair planned for early November at Woodfield Mall.

SCALA SAID a number of agencies have responded to invitations and will display at the fair. Details will be reported later, Scala said.

Trustee Peter Justen, safety and health chairman, requested that police representatives provide a summary of juvenile problems for committee study next month.

The group discussed possible need for establishing a separate youth committee which could be involved in an outreach program.

4 Women Found Guilty Of Theft

Four Chicago women arrested last weekend on charges of petty theft and possession of stolen property were found guilty Wednesday in Cook County Circuit Court in Schaumburg.

A fifth person alleged to be involved in the incident, which occurred at Woodfield was not prosecuted.

Gloria Rodgers, 20, was sentenced to 60 days in the Cook County Jail and two years probation. The three other women, Lynell Dampier, Lee Ann Gates and Mary Hamilton, were given either probation or supervision by the court.

The four women were accused of stealing nearly $500 in clothing from Sears, Penney's and Madigan's at Woodfield.

They were arrested after leaving the shopping center, by the Elk Grove Village police working on information supplied by the Schaumburg police.

Hoffman Estates Supports Licensing Center For Area

A proposed motor vehicle licensing facility in the Northwest suburbs won the support of the Hoffman Estates Village Board this week, although the board opposed what it termed the "ridiculous" allocation of $5 million for the building.

In its resolution of support, the board put a $1.5 million ceiling on the cost of the structure, property and furnishings, which trustees said is still $400,000 more than was spent on the newly opened village hall.

Several trustees suggested there are better uses for the money. Mrs. Virginia Hayter urged court reform, especially in juvenile court, and "bringing the courts to the people."

"They ought to take the $5 million and finish the roads so that the motor vehicles will have some place to drive," commented trustee Ed Hennessy.

"If this (the village) land and building and property and all the furnishings cost $1.1 million, I agree. Five million dollars (for a licensing center) is too much," he added.

Trustee William Cowin called the $5 million figure "ridiculous" and Trustee Bruce Lind said he could support the facility only with the $1.5 million limit.

SPEAKING FROM the audience, resident Henry Netter criticized the plan to build a licensing facility similar to the one on Elston Avenue, Chicago, where drivers license applicants are tested in an artificial traffic situation, a specially designed area off city streets.

Testing on "a golf course is terribly wrong. It doesn't prove a thing, any more than driving through the parking lot at Conant High School," said Netter.

Board opinion was evenly split on whether the facility should be supported, and if so, whether a ceiling amount should be set. Trustees Diane Jensen and Dyrle Rathman, saying they could not support a facility without knowing more details about it, voted no, as did Hennessy. Mayor Downey broke a tie vote by joining Lind, Mrs. Hayter, and Cowin in support of the resolution.

17 Firemen Pass Preliminary Training Exams

Seventeen firefighters from Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates were among those who have qualified for advanced training in the emergency medical training program being conducted by a number of area fire departments and Northwest Community Hospital.

The program will lead to the initiation of a highly sophisticated program for treating emergency situations through a communications system connecting fire departments with the hospital.

Schaumburg firemen who completed the 90-plus hours of training and several examinations include Martin Coniglio, Donald Kopeky, Art Stoike, James Shafar, James Naartz, Rollin Fitch, and John Dixon.

Terry O'Callahan, Dave Baird, Joe Nikrant, John Criel, Richard Knapik, Tom Ryan, Dick Weyller, Joe Miniuciani, and Gary Miller were the firefighters from Hoffman Estates who also passed the requirements.

Dr. Stanley Zydlo, program director, said the actual use of the emergency medical facilities will not get under way until October. He said a review program will continue at the hospital to allow the men to learn new techniques and refresh their skills.

'Friends Of Library' Formed Here

A nucleus group of Schaumburg Township residents Wednesday formed the Friends of the Schaumburg Township Public Library, elected officers and adopted bylaws.

During the organizational meeting in the Schaumburg Township Library those present agreed expanding the membership and seeking sponsors, donors and working members would be an immediate goal.

The Friends of the Library began their work with a $183 treasury given to them by the informal friends group that has worked to benefit the library in the past.

Michael Madden, librarian, said the original friends group had never chartered but regularly ran fund-raising benefits that aided the library.

THE FRIENDS OF the Library group that formed Wednesday will also receive and encourage gifts, endowments and bequests to the library.

However, raising money will not be the organization's only goal. The purpose of the organization is to maintain an interest and focus public attention on libraries and stimulate the use of the library's resources and services.

The progress committee will focus attention by presenting cultural programs in the newly constructed theatre in the round within the new wing of the library.

Library board member Joe McAuliffe accepted chairmanship of the programs committee and announced its first offering would be the play the "Duchess of Malfi" by John Webster.

McAuliffe described the presentation he will direct as "a big, bawdy, violent horror show. It's literature and it's alive and will captivate our audience," said McAuliffe.

McAULIFFE ADDED that the Duchess is cast with professionals as well as area residents and will be shown in the theatre Sept. 14, 15, 16, 22 and 23.

Some of the other future events the committee is planning are film festivals, adult education classes during the day, a Great Books program, book reviews, shut-in service and an art fair.

Other committees formed were the public relations committee chaired by Pat Hogan head of special services, and the membership committee chaired by Mrs. Ruth McAuliffe.

Officers of the Friends of the Library are: Robert Miller, president; McAuliffe, vice president; Joel Stempil, treasurer; and Miss Hogan secretary.

Directors are Mrs. Gail Stempil, Mrs. Debbie Miller, library trustee, and Pat Llerandi, head of adult services.

The organization will meet again at 1 p.m. Saturday Aug. 12, in the lower level of the library at 20 W. Library Lane, Schaumburg. Anyone interested in joining is urged to attend.

THE MEMBERS WILL also finalize membership dues for individual, organizational, contributing and life members.

Although the organization is soliciting cash donations its officers stress that working members are also being sought.

The group is putting together an information letter that will ask peeople to become friends of the library by donation and also explain that the library's services are free to all in the township.

Folk Fest Aug. 4 At Vogelei Park

Music fans will gather at a summer Folk Fest Aug. 4 at Vogelei Park in Hoffman Estates. Sponsored by the Young People's Movement of St. Hubert's Parish, the festival will feature the folk group, Betty Frank and Co.

Miss Frank has played at coffee houses, benefit concerts and weddings in the North Shore and Lake County areas.

The YPM is asking a donation of $1.00 for the festival, which will begin at 8:00 p.m. YPM sponsors picnics, liturgies and activities for high school students. Proceeds from the festival will aid in the continuation of these activities.

A donation also will be made to the Community Life Program of Schaumburg Township.

Three Firefighters Hired Full Time

Three former volunteer firefighters in the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District were hired recently as full-time firemen.

They are James Dugan, David Baird Jr. and James Clark. All were hired after a recent test conducted by the district. There are now 16 full-time firemen in the district.

All of the men will now begin an in-service training program, said Fire Chief Carl Selke.

Baird was one of 10 Hoffman Estates firefighters to pass the emergency medical technicians programs conducted by Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights.

All proceeds will be contributed to the fight against Muscular Dystrophy and related diseases. Last year neighborhood carnivals held by children across the country raised over $755,657 for research and patient service programs of the Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America.

Youth Worker Hired In Schaumburg Township

Schaumburg Township youths in need of counsel now have the services of Schaumburg Township Outreach worker John Mahon who was hired by the township board of auditors Wednesday.

Mahon, 23, of Chicago, plans to move to the area shortly. He was formerly employed by the U.S. Department of Justice Bureau of Prisons, community treatment center. He also did group counseling and legal aid work at the University of Illinois Circle Campus and Outreach work at the Humbolt Park Youth Center in Chicago.

He attained a bachelor of arts in administration of criminal justice at the University of Illinois and plans to return to Jane Adams School of Social Work this fall to study for a master's in social work.

MAHON'S JOB, said Schaumburg Township Committee on Youth (COY) officials, is "to be where the kids are, make contact with them and let them know he is available for counseling or help."

Mahon may be contacted personally at the Buttery, 105 S. Roselle Rd., or by calling 894-8132.

Mahon was hired for an $8,200 annual salary that will be up for review in six months. He will work with Larry Walker, Schaumburg Township Director of Youth Services.

Committee chairman, Joyce Kroll, told the auditors the committee selected Mahon over several other good applicants and said he will be an asset to the committee.

In her report to the board, Mrs. Kroll noted the committee is now conducting studies on the following future programs: A drop-in center; a hot line; teen employment; a shelter house; family counseling; big brother, big sister program; adult and teen education; and job training through experienced craftsmen in the area.

Cigarette Blamed For Fire In Auto

A cigarette was cited as the cause of a car fire early yesterday morning in Schaumburg.

Police said the front seat of a car driven by Guy Coffey, 51 N. Pleasant Ln., Schaumburg, caught fire near the intersection of Roselle Road and Maricopa Lane.

Equipment from the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District was called to the scene to extinguish the fire.

Tuesday, firemen responded to a call at 151 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates. There a flashback from a gas water heater set a pile of clothes on fire.

Firemen said the fire melted a copper valve on the water heater and released water extinguishing the fire.

An estimated $300 damage was caused.

3 University Officials Miss Disclosure Deadline

by IRA TEINOWITZ
Chamberlain-Loftus News Service
Special to the Herald

SPRINGFIELD — Three top university officials, all earning more than $40,000 a year, have failed to file financial statements required by state law, it was learned yesterday.

They are:

— David S. Derge, $50,000-a-year president of Southern Illinois University, Carbondale campus.

— Richard J. Nelson, $40,500-a-year president of Northern Illinois University at DeKalb.

— James B. Holderman, $45,000 executive director of the state Board of Higher Education.

All should have filed statements designed to disclose possible conflicts of interest by July 1.

Their failure to do so, according to the new state Constitution, "shall result in ineligibility for or forfeiture of state office."

State Auditor Michael J. Howlett, notified of their failure, yesterday stopped all checks to the three officials, pending receipt of an opinion from Atty. Gen. William J. Scott as to whether they still are state officials.

The constitution requires statements of economic interests from all state officials and candidates for state office. It also allows the General Assembly to extend the requirement to local officials.

LAST JANUARY, the Legislature implemented both provisions and required that the statements be filed by July 1. The state Supreme Court upheld the laws in a June hearing.

Financial statements have been filed by 3,620 state officials in the office of the secretary of state in Springfield since the laws were passed.

Thousands of others have filed statements in the offices of county clerks.

Yesterday's action by Howlett was the first taken by any official to prevent officials who have not filed from being paid.

"The state Constitution clearly says that anyone who does not file a statement of economic disclosure shall not be eligible for employment by the State of Illinois," Howlett said. "Based on that, anyone who does not file and is so certified to us by the secretary of state will have his paycheck withheld."

REP. GEORGE W. Lindberg, R-Crystal Lake, author of the ethics legislation and Republican candidate for state comptroller, applauded Howlett's action. "It occurs to me that the average citizen gets caught and is given a traffic ticket, he pays his fine," said Lindberg. "Public officials who get caught should have to do the same."

McDonough County State's Atty. Henry D. Sintzenich had asked Scott for a similar ruling on whether local government officials who do not file can be paid or continue to serve.

A survey of statements on file showed that presidents of all other state colleges have complied with the law, as did all trustees for both the University of Illinois and SIU.

Holderman contended he had mailed a statement to Springfield and another to the clerk of DuPage County, where he is a member of the Elmhurst Board of Education. The county clerk, he said, has a statement on file and a duplicate will be filed in Springfield Monday.

Derge said he was planning to file a statement, but "it's just a little bit late. I don't find any difficulty with it because I don't have anything to disclose," he said.

Nelson could not be reached for comment.

Models-To-Be Get Their Feet Wet

by MARY HUTCHINGS

All mothers, it seems, are potential stage mothers, and more than a thousand of them braved three-hour lines Thursday at tryouts for Woodfield's August back-to-school fashion show.

Youngsters aged 3 to 11 nervously crowded into the shopping center's Schaumburg Room while waiting to walk the ramp and do their pivot turns before the panel of judges.

All, however, had their mother's assurance that they could stand the test — after all, they were the most beautiful, poised and well-mannered children in Chicagoland.

"We're seeing a very high fashion show and everything that's current in young fashion," commentator Priscilla Henricks told the anxious audience as she encouraged shy toddlers and sometimes awkward pre-teens.

ALMOST ALL the contestants were girls, while the male contingent seemed decidedly unenthused as they paraded in suits and ties or Western sportswear — pleasing or displeasing their moms.

In midis, knickers, long gowns, hot pants or slack suits, some of the children looked beyond their years. Miss Henricks joked that one sharply dressed boy "looks like the chairman of the board at age 7."

The littlest girls shyly strode the Miss America-like ramp, while the oldest spun through their turns on stage and then loped back to their seats laughing at themselves, but still hopeful of having the judges' points.

Mrs. Nancy Kozee of Mount Prospect brought 3-year-old Kelley to the tryouts because "it's good experiesce," she said. Appearing bewildered, Kelley nodded her head in agreement.

Palatine's Mrs. Cleone Larson accompanied her daughters Raina, 2½, and Tamia, 5, "because the girls enjoy modeling." Tamia began her career at age 20 months, and Mrs. Larson says she "wouldn't have the girls model if they didn't want to."

WHILE THE CONTESTANTS had their mothers' encouragement, their performance was always unpredictable. Model Judy Ceppi of Bloomingdale, who brought her daughters Christina, 5, and Marisa, 3½, to the audition, says that even though the girls have experience, "you're not always sure how they'll do. They don't always do what their mothers tell them."

Christina, who has modeled since she was 6 months old, rehearses at home, and to her mother's amazement, even told some friends this week to go home because she had to practice.

"A good model has self-confidence, she's a good actress," Christina's mother explained. "You have to act the part of every outfit you wear. You are what the clothes are."

Arlington Heights resident Gina Santicola, 11, said she would draw on her dancing and stage experience in the tryouts, and perhaps was more at ease than other contestants since she, too, has modeled before.

Eight-year-old JoAnn Morrison of Wheeling said she was afraid to audition but has no ambitions of becoming a model. "I want to be a movie star," she says.

TOP FASHION MODELS and experts Lillian Gholson, Mercedes Evans and Jamie Lynn smilingly encouraged potential models as they paraded before them during auditions yesterday for a fall fashion show at Woodfield.

With stars in their eyes, the girls came "to see what it's like," to "get discovered" or to begin the slow climb to a career in fashion.

SIX-YEAR-OLD Alisa Corsi is "big on living-room modeling," her mother said, "but in front of people it might be different." Alisa, however, is another old pro — a veteran of shows in Iron Mountain, Mich., before her family moved to Schaumburg.

Perhaps the most enthusiastic and articulate proponent of fashion modeling as a career was contestant Lisa Aronfeld of Chicago, who says she wants to "learn how to walk, and how to have a good figure" from modeling. The young ballet student also says she "loves clothes" and has been to "lots of fashion shows — three or four."

"I love everything about modeling. It's cool," Lisa says.

Also an experienced model, she reads Vogue magazine regularly and reports that her favorite designer is Christian Dior.

"Tiger" Thomas of Arlington Heights, one of the few boys in the throng waiting for an audition, said he was there partly because he wanted to be and partly because his mother wanted him to try out.

"It's not bad," he said, as he stood surrounded by a group of girls who definitely weren't the tomboy types — at least for the morning.

As another boy shuffled by the judges' table onstage, Miss Henricks summed up the feeling of the audience: "Thanks for being a good sport."

TWO OTHER BOYS in line didn't want to be identified for fear their friends would find out. "This is girls' stuff," they said with embarrassed laughs.

"Girls' stuff" or not, competition was like the "big time" yesterday, but only a few will be chosen — to appear in the fashion show Aug. 10 and 11 in the Grand Court of the shopping center.

Judges for the auditions include Lillian Gholson, director of Oak Park's Patricia Stevens School, and Mercedes Evans, a free-lance model who recently completed a term as president of the Mannequins Guild for Chicago's top fashion models.

Due to the unexpected numbers of prospective models, tryouts are being held again this morning for 3 to 12-year-olds from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on a first-come, first-served basis.

Officials Balk At Income Law

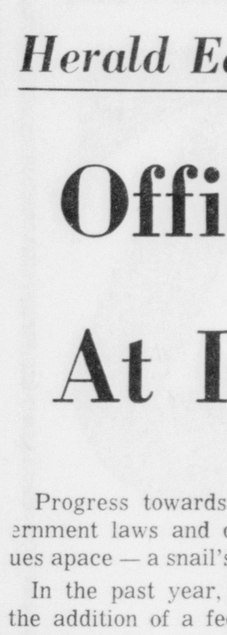
Progress towards ethics-in-government laws and conduct continues apace — a snail's pace.

In the past year, we have seen the addition of a federal law governing disclosure by candidates for U.S. offices of sources of campaign funds, and the tightening of state legislation on income disclosure for state officeholders.

But the public officials and candidates continue to balk at compliance with the spirit and the purpose of these laws.

The President praises the advance of the federal campaign disclosure law, and steadfastly refuses to discuss the source of some $10 million given his campaign fund before the day the law became effective. His example has been imitated by practically all federal candidates.



Roman Pucinski

State and local candidates by the score found it possible to file so-called income disclosure statements to which the answer to every question was: "None." Some officials such as Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley epitomized the arrogance with which so many office holders greet ethics legislation by filing blank statements, containing nothing more than their signatures.

A congressional candidate, named to fill a vacancy on the November ballot, refrained from certifying his candidacy to the secretary of state until the first deadline for disclosing campaign contributions — thus excusing himself from the law until the next deadline on Sept. 1.

One candidate after another, quizzed about financial matters, ducks behind the defense that his opponent has not volunteered such information, and therefore it is unnecessary for him to do so.

Meanwhile, those in office continue to manipulate their public privileges for political advantage.

The day's mail invariably brings handsful of congressional mail, bearing the no-postage "frank" of fdral officeholders and containing thinly veiled campaign propaganda. The use of the congressional franking privilege is defended by officeholders as a legitimate means of serving their constituents by keeping them informed and gathering their opinions through questionnaires.

But in private conversations, politicians frankly admit that conscientious use of the franking privilege is one aspect of "doing their homework," of keeping their name before the voters.

Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, whose congressional district encompasses the northwest side of Chicago and portions of the Northwest suburbs, recently used the franking privilege to distribute questionnaires to voters throughout the state. He is a candidate for the U.S. Senate, against Sen. Charles H. Percy.

This use of the franking privilege aroused the resentment of many voters outside the district in which he was elected.

Rep. Pucinski has been amply chastised by the press for this abuse, and we are willing to concede that it may have been merely a lapse in judgment which occasioned the statewide mailing.

The adverse reaction which he encountered, however, should indicate to officeholders and candidates alike that the people are demanding that more attention be paid to the spirit of the law.

Nixon's Strong In The South

Alabama Gov. George Wallace's emerging decision not to run this year as a third party presidential candidate seems likely to give President Nixon all 11 "old south" states and nearly half the electoral votes he needs for re-election.

The word "emerging" is used because a judgment is forming not from open Wallace statements but from utterances by aides, seasoned Wallace-watchers, and at least one of his physicians.

The doctor's word that the governor's nonspinal wounds have weakened him more than earlier realized, is getting around. Less appreciated is Wallace's evident mental depression.

Alabama newsmen who had a group visit with him at Miami Beach have not said much about it. But they found him in a state of melancholy. He seemed almost disinterested in current politics. He would give one-line answers to questions and then fall silent and look down at the floor.

Once or twice people around Wallace have hinted that a third party effort might be good therapy for him. But his downcast mood and weakened condition appear to work against the idea.

Bruce Biossat

If he is out of it this time, what then?

The best information is that he will not endorse the Democratic nominee, Sen. George McGovern, and will not encourage any of his followers to take that course. But he won't endorse Nixon, either. He will play what seems a plausible role, that of a disabled man who is necessarily sidelined and understandably quiet.

This stance will do him no appreciable harm if he recovers sufficiently to make another presidential bid in 1976 within the Democratic fold. His party credentials will be intact.

In the confusion of the Democratic convention's closing hours, the cameras may have caught only briefly, if at all, a sign raised in the Alabama delegation which said: "Wallace will fix in '76."

That, then, is the likely focus. But the irony in this for 1972 is that Wallace, lying quiet within the party fold, may do the presidential ticket more harm than if he campaigned independently.

I've made my first preliminary check in the South. The hard prospect is that Nixon, at this stage, stands to win the 11 old south states with their total of 130 electoral votes and get a long leg up on the 270 required for election.

Nixon won five of those states—Virginia, Tennessee, the two Carolinas and Florida — in 1968. He lost Texas to Sen. Hubert Humphrey by a single percentage point. And in Georgia, Louisiana and Arkansas he ran ahead of Humphrey while trailing Wallace. Only in Alabama and Mississippi did Nixon place third.

Alabama sources tell me the guessing there today is that Nixon would beat McGovern by at least two to one.

To gauge the significance of a southern sweep for Nixon, you need only make the further realistic calcualtion that he may bag another 71 electoral votes by blanking McGovern in the 13 Mountain and Plains states and getting just Oregon and Alaska in the Pacific tier. Conservatively, give the President just 42 in four of the nine middle west states, leaving out the really big ones. That puts him 27 short of election, without counting any large states but Texas and Florida.

So the southern thing is dynamite for McGovern. He may work around George Meany and other disgruntled labor bosses and touch the union rank and file in the north. But, blacks and some youth aside, the rank and file is the core of his southern opposition.

T. Roosevelt's 'Action' Needed

I would personally like to congratulate Melinda Vaughn on her very fine letter concerning that "circus of graft" we call politics, which was printed in Friday's Herald.

Miss Vaughn obviously has to be one of the most perceptive young ladies to be presently attending high school. I myself am a high school student, and I know that for anyone in our current grade level to be so perceptive and possess a mind so able to cut through the superficial and slanted views concerning politics, and yet still be able to draw conclusions and clearly present her own opinions, is extremely rare among even college level students.

She very obviously has a rare gift which very few of us these day's can claim to have, and that is to unemotionally and straight-forwardly tell other people exactly what they see and sense, despite the padded and overly biased information all of us are exposed to in every day of our lives.

Miss Vaughn also, for those of you with any type of background knowledge in history, correctly stated that Theodore Roosevelt was the last president (who also by the way had such a gift) who wasn't out for money and/or fame. Instead, he was a man of action and of little idle talk. It was he who once stated: "I took the Canal (the Panama), and let the Congress debate." It was with such leadership and audacity that this nation began its great rise to a world power.

But after his term had ended there were some people who said that such leadership was dangerous to world relations and security. And there are still some fools who believe that that is true, even to this day. Well, it is for those of you who feel as such, that I find it necessary to remind you, that since Theodore Roosevelt's term had ended in 1909, there has passed some 63 years, and 11 presidents who believed as you do. All of them were full of more empty talk and promises, than of decisive action. And over this span of 63 years, there still is to this day, no sign of a total peace anywhere in the world . . . Do you still feel anymore secure in this world today, with this kind of policy in action? I think not.

Referendum Support Is Praised

The Concerned Citizens Committee of the recent Hoffman Estates Park District Referendum wishes to extend our many thanks to the Hoffman Herald staff for the excellent newspaper coverage given before and after this referendum.

We wish to give particular recognition to your reporter, Steve Brown, who attended so many meetings in order to give your subscribers a complete unbiased story that enabled our citizens to understand both sides of each issue.

Without doubt both issues would have been decisively defeated had it not been for a concerned reporter dedicated to presenting the readers with a complete story for the Hoffman Estates Park District and Concerned Citizens Committee. We are grateful to have The Herald and reporters of the calibre of Mr. Brown covering the news of our community.

She's 'Privileged' By Vote

I would like to comment on a letter by Melinda Vaughn, appearing in the Fence Post on Friday, July 21. In that letter, she said that she was glad she could not vote, because there was no joy in voting in what she termed a "rat race."

As a student who is able to vote for the first time in November, I consider myself privileged. Voting to me is not only a matter of patriotism, as Miss Vaughn suggests, but is rather an opportunity to have some voice in who shall govern me.

I, too, am often discouraged by the fact that so many politicians are corrupt, and often make "hollow" promises. Yet, the answer is to learn enough about the candidates so as to work against those who are "money grabbing liars," and for those whom a person feels will best run the government, be it county, state, or federal.

To refuse to vote as a sort of rebellion is actually only a way of not expressing your dissatisfaction. For as a result, the non-voter has taken a part in helping the "wrong" men obtain offices. When this happens, he has no right to complain, for he did not use his own influence to prevent the situation.

A familiar saying should convince anyone that their interest in politics and voting is essential, "if you are not part of the solution, you are part of the problem."

Music To Grow By

It's a noisy jet that blows nobody any good.

Four scientists at the University of North Carolina in Greensboro have discovered that the kind of noise produced by a jetliner taking off causes turnip seeds to germinate faster than normally.

The researchers subjected both dry and wet turnip seeds to a level of noise equivalent to that of a 727 revving up 100 feet away on the runway. The noise had no effect on dry seeds, reports Science News. But wet seeds germinated in about 10 per cent less time and had about a 100 per cent higher germination rate than seeds in a quiet environment.

One explanation is that the sound waves break down the exterior coating of a seed in some way that lets water and oxyygen enter more easily. Another theory is that the waves affect the interiors of cells within the seed.

The research opens up at least two interesting possibilities.

In hot regions of the earth, for example, ground temperature is often so high that seeds planted go into a state of dormancy and permit two crops a season instead of one.

Sound waves might also be used to make weeds germinate before a field is planted. They could then be destroyed by being plowed under and the desired crop sown in a weed-free field.

The scientists admit that broadcasting airport-level noise over the countryside is not an appealing prospect. Work is going forward to see if particular wavelengths or combinations of wavelengths can produce the same effects at lower decibel levels, and also to determine the minimum duration of noise needed.

If the questions are answered favorably, suggests Science News, the day may come when farmers set up loudspeakers to play noise at their crops even as they now play music in their barns to keep the cows contented.

by RUDY CERNKOVIC

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — This city's leadership in steel, aluminum, glass and other "hard" production is well known. It also rolls out the barrel on another product, beer.

The Pittsburgh area, because of the many mill towns, consumes a lot of beer. Orders for "boilermakers" a shot of liquor with a beer are traditional in taverns near mills and factories.

For years the Pittsburgh Brewing Co., producer of Iron City Beer, has been a leading purveyor in the area. Sales surpassed more than a million barrels annually. But they're down now. Iron City, which tried to mollify black consumer resentment, has been caught in a white "blue collar" backlash which cut profits more than half.

THE BREWERY'S report for the first six months of 1972 showed profits off 50.8 per cent and sales slumping 9.9 per cent. Company officials attributed the backsliding to the lagging economy, increased wages and other costs with no relief in selling prices.

Board Chairman Milton G. Hulme and Pres. Louis J. Slais admitted there was another reason. They blamed "circulation of misleading information relative to the minority program adopted in February in an agreement signed with the NAACP" for some of the loss in profits.

That agreement, aimed at ending black criticism of the company's hiring policy, generated a white backlash, according to many brewery workers.

Taverns catering to blacks had conducted an 11-month "selective buying" campaign against Iron City beer.

WHEN THE AGREEMENT was signed with black groups, the brewery had 42 black employes out of 600. The brewery agreed to hire more blacks and advertise regularly in black media. Within the next two years, the brewery said, two-thirds of all employes hired would be blacks.

The agreement also said Iron City would run from 26 to 52 advertisements annually in the Pittsburgh Courier, a black newspaper.

Iron City also promised to run the same number of advertisements with black-oriented radio stations to include "announcements of black community interests."

At the same time the firm invested $20,000 in a black-operated savings and loan association, the Dwelling House Building and Loan Association, in the city's predominantly black "Hill District."

By taking paper and pencil with you and doing a little arithmetic when you go shopping for an air conditioner, you can save as much as $30 a year on operating costs. The arithmetic will lead you to the more efficient machines, which consume less electricity for a given amount of cooling.

Every air conditioner on the market is now rated on its "energy efficiency ratio," or EER, a yardstick recently adopted by the industry.

In theory, you should be able to ask a salesman, "What's this air conditioner's EER?" and get an answer, since the Home Appliance Manufacturer's Association says it has furnished to all dealers a directory showing EERs for all 1972 models. In actuality, few salesmen seem to be acquainted with this important bit of consumer information, and you'll probably have to figure the EER yourself. Fortunately, it's easy arithmetic.

SOMEWHERE ON each machine is a metal plate, on which the vital information is stamped. One figure shows cooling capacity, in BTUs. Another shows, as "watts," the amount of electricity the machine uses. Simply divide the BTU rating by the wattage, and you have the EER. For example, a 5,000-BTU machine consumes 625 watts. Its EER is 8.

The higher the number, the more efficient the machine. One with an EER below 6 is considered unacceptably inefficient, at least in New York City, where the threat of blackouts and brownouts have officialdom promoting a "save a watt" campaign, to reduce electrical consumption.

Dr. Charles W. Lawrence, the city government's public utilities specialist, who's made a comprehensive study of air-conditioner efficiency and power consumption, found that electric bills could be cut by as much as $30 over a 1,500-hour cooling season.

That's based on differences as great as 600 watts between two makes of air conditioners, each with 5,000 BTU cooling capacity. The least efficient had an EER of 3.6. The most efficient machines tested (10,000 BTU models) had an EER of 12.

One air conditioner is more efficient than another, says Dr. Lawrence, because of differences in design. The design of the more efficient machine enables it to move and cool more air with less effort. This almost always means more expensive construction, and a higher initial cost.

ANYONE IN the market for an air conditioner should be cautioned, though, not to shop for EER alone. The first order of business is to determine the proper size (BTU rating). That's dependent on the number of cubic feet in the space you're going to cool, and factors such as the number of windows, which affect the amount of heat admitted to the room.

It's a common mistake to err on the side of generosity, and buy an air conditioner that's too big for the job. It will pull the temperature down quickly and then "coast," on the fan. On the cooling cycle, a conditioner wrings an incredible amount of water out of the air, and lower humidity can contribute as much to comfort as the reduced temperature. The too-big conditioner that "coasts" a lot of the time results in high humidity, and less room comfort than a smaller machine of the right size.

The better-organized dealers will have charts and tables that indicate the proper size — or you can get a copy of "How to Choose the Room Air Conditioner Best Suited for You" by writing to the Home Appliance Manufacturers Association, 20 North Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60606.

Financial Assets Rise Sharply: S & L League

Financial assets of American families rose sharply in 1971 and the bulk of additional holdings were savings at financial institutions, according to the U.S. Savings and Loan League.

In its newly-issued Fact Book '72, the league, principal trade organization for the nation's savings and loan business, said that of the total $84.7 billion added to family financial assets, including increases in life insurance and pension fund reserves, financial institutions accounted for $65.9 billion in 1971. During 1970, families added a total if $66.3 billion but with only $32.3 billion going to financial institutions.

Holdings by financial institutions include savings in savings and loan associations, mutual savings banks, commercial banks and credit unions.

Other types of financial assets of households are life insurance reserves, pension fund reserves, and credit and equity instruments.

THE FACT BOOK said credit and equity instruments (stocks, bonds, etc.) fared poorly last year with American families taking $6.9 billion out of direct market instruments, as compared with adding $10.5 billion to them in 1970.

The publication said the huge gain by financial institutions was significant, since the ebb and flow of money between the direct markets and financial institutions is one of the most widely discussed phenomena of contemporary finance.

"The motive for the shifting is simple," the fact book said. "The household seeks to maximize its earning and chooses its savings media in response to changes in interest rates."

The publication said that when direct market rates climb, rates at financial institutions tend to lag behind. When interest rates ease, savings deposits offer the better yield. This accounts for the see-saw pattern in savings habits.

THE FACT BOOK pointed out that the average American household has a wide choice of alternatives in which to put its savings dollars.

"It first must choose between tangible and financial assets," the publication said. "Financial assets can be deposited in a financial intermediary such as a savings and loan association, a mutual savings bank, a commercial bank or a credit union. The household can buy life insurance or build up a retirement plan. It can also buy direct market instruments, a broad range of investments including such diverse holdings as savings bonds and corporate stocks."

The fact book said that the placing of household funds in financial institutions or in direct market holdings is highly volatile and changes from year to year.

For instance, in 1966 market instruments were the greatest favorite with the public; in 1967 households returned to financial institutions with virtually no increase in their holdings of credit and equity instruments; in 1969 the shift was away from savings deposits and back to market instruments — and the shift was greater than that which occurred in 1966; in 1970 the move was back to financial institutions.

'If The Situation Appears Serious'

Bakalis Will Intervene In Disputes

School boards and teachers' groups unable to settle contract disputes before school opens this fall are likely to get some help from state School Supt. Michael Bakalis — whether they want it or not.

Bakalis recently announced formal procedures he will follow this fall in dealing with unsettled teacher contract disputes.

The procedures include an offer of voluntary mediation or fact-finding and also the possibility that Bakalis will step in "if the situation appears serious" even if the parties to a dispute refuse the voluntary services.

In addition, Bakalis will supply information to school districts involved in negotiations about finances, labor relations or anything else.

"Last year there were 35 or 40 situations in which the superintendent was involved, either privately or publicly," Mike Braver, public relations officer for Bakalis, said. "These procedures are nothing new, but this is the first time we have formalized them."

LAST YEAR, Bakalis personally intervened in a bitter teachers' strike and lockout in Decatur. After efforts to mediate the dispute, Bakalis got a court order forcing the schools to reopen and asked a court to impose a settlement. The case has been appealed.

Braver said the question of Bakalis' jurisdiction in such disputes will eventually be settled by the Illinois Supreme Court, but until then, he said, "If there is a really serious disruption of the education process, we believe that we not only have the authority but the right to settle the situation."

Braver said the belief is supported by a portion of the Illinois School Code that says the state superintendent can hear and resolve disputes.

He added that the state office does not believe there will be a repetition of the Decatur situation anywhere in Illinois this year. "We hope we don't have to use any of these procedures," he said.

Students Get A Chance To Do Research

BEAVERTON, Ore. (UPI) — The average scholarship consists of a stipend and a pat on the back.

Recipients of the Summer Science Scholarships receive not only $600, but also valuable work experience on scientific projects at the Oregon Regional Primate Research Center.

The scholarship program is three years old and this summer is aiding 11 students, mainly from Portland-area high schools. The first scholarship was awarded in 1969 by the Beaverton Women's Club.

The students started their summer jobs June 14 this year, and will continue to work through the summer.

DR. EDWARD S. West, chairman of the Summer Science Scholarship committee, and assistant to the director of the center, said, "the object of the program is to take highly selective and brilliant students and expose them to scientific research so they can have some background to help them choose their life's work.

"It's so much better to participate in scientific research rather than just read about it," he said.

Applications from students in area high schools are received by the scholarship committee, and scholastic ratings, teacher recommendations, college entrance examination scores and an interview are part of the selection process, West said.

Once a student has been selected, the primate center has research scientists who have agreed to take on the students and review the applications. West said the scientists then choose five students they would like to have work with them — and, if possible, that is where the students are placed.

"If we have someone coming in who has experience working with computers, we can put them to work with our computer program," West said.

AN EXTENSIVE computer system for storing medical and genetic information on the animals at the center is part of the research center's highly technical medical and social research.

Students interested in chemistry normally work with biochemists and those interested in pathology often work in the surgery room.

Each student will write and present a paper at the end of the summer and will receive a certificate confirming his or her work at the center.

Life Off-Stage A Little Lonely For Lamplighters

by GENIE CAMPBELL

To people dining out at the Top of the Towers, the life style of the Lamplighters, the featured entertainers in the elegant penthouse restaurant of the Arlington Park Towers Hotel, would appear certainly both devil-may-care and glamorc

Just consider their working conditions . . . presenting shows in a plush dining room harboring a cosmopolitan clientel; setting up residence right in the hotel; and being entitled to use all the recreational facilities including the indoor swimming pool, game room and golf course too.

The race track, less than a five-minute walk from the entrance of the hotel offers still another opportunity for diversion.

HOW MANY PEOPLE haven't secretly wished at one time or another to be able to live it up royally in a large hotel and partake of all the advantages and special services that go along with that bustling kind of life?

But that's only how it appears looking on from the outside as, comforted by good food and conversation, guests watch the Lamplighters bounce out on stage for their first nightly show.

Quite the contrary, hotel life is quite staid and uneventful if you are an actual member of the sextet whose ages range from 20 to 26. Since they opened in the Towers last March, the young vocalists will admit that working the hours when most people their age are out socializing and having fun can make for a rather lonely existence off-stage.

"We don't have a chance to meet many young people," they all agreed during a rap session recently following one of their performances. "Most of the socializing we do is together."

PERIODICALLY AFTER a week night show, when it's still early enough to enter the night life scene, the six will pile into one car and head down to Chicago where unobtrusively they meld with the boisterous crowds.

Together they will also occasionally receive invitations to dine in private homes as the guests of fans who continually return to the Top of the Towers to watch and hear them sing.

The New Lamplighters' wholesome, clean-cut image is inviting to the middle-aged adult world that prefers shining faces over long-haired rock musicians.

They patronize the Top of the Towers because they like the kids and because the gourmet prices are within their budget. (The menu is a little too steep for a lot of young adults.)

THE LAMPLIGHTERS include Donna Lynn Sakry, Tom Netherton, Sue Spading, Lloyd Pedersen, Beverly Rassmussen and John Hoagland.

Bev and John are man and wife. While they first met in high school, their relationship was cemented by their mutual work within the Lamplighter group.

SUE SPADING and Donna Lynn Sakry try on jewelry in the hotel gift shop. Before she started singing, Sue was in many local theater productions and also studied drama at the University of Minnesota. Donna comes from a musical family and at an early age began playing piano and guitar. While in high school and college at St. Cloud State, she sang in local clubs.

All but one are natives of Minnesota, home territory for the Lamplighter act that has been serving as a career booster for young entertainers now for 18 years.

The exception is Lloyd Pedersen, who hails from Chicago and is a graduate of Northwestern University.

Yet while the Lamplighters may lament a bit over their semi-isolated hotel life, they are first and foremost ambitious singers and consider it a lucky omen to be in their present positions at the Towers.

"IT's A NICE way to find out where it's at," remarked Sue. "It will be a stepping stone for most of us or a dead end," she added.

"There are just so many talented kids," said Bev, emphasizing how difficult it is to break out on one's own power. "In fact too many. You've really got to work to get ahead."

All of them hope that their experience as Lamplighters will at least allow them to get a foot through the show biz door.

Changing their act periodically under the direction of producer Bruce Neilson, who also handles another Lamplighter group out of Minneapolis, the group of singers seldom become bored with any one show. Last month they opened with a new revue consisting of all country and western tunes. It replaced the contemporary selections the group had been presenting.

"BUT YOU NEVER get tired of going on if the audience is good," was one comment. And with racing season in full motion, the Lamplighters agree that things are a bit more exciting now up in the Towers.

"But only the winners keep coming back."

The Lamplighters are free to spend the day as they wish . . . unless they are getting ready to stage a new medley of tunes and then for several weeks preceding opening night, they are in rehearsal five to six hours together in addition to their nightly performances. That can make for a long, tiring day.

But otherwise if not sleeping in . . . "the temptation to slumber until early afternoon is a great one and an easy rut to fall into" . . . the sextet is up and about the hotel taking advantage of the facilities.

"WE HAVE OUR own little community," said Donna. (Three hotel rooms are set aside at the end of one hallway for them.) "We've been moved to different floors, but we've never had anything but a blue room," she laughed.

And having cars at the hotel allows each of them to shop and run errands or just investigate new restaurants. Eating at the hotel every night can become monotonous and expensive.

"Actually you learn to do a lot of variations in the popcorn popper," said Sue whose main course some evenings is a warmed can of ravioli.

WEATHER PERMITTING, John Hoaglund, leader of the New Lamplighters, is up every morning trying to improve his golf. John, a tenor, started as a singer with a rock group and toured with them for over a year working Las Vegas and New York and also many industrial shows.

NATIVE CHICAGOAN Lloyd Pederson watches Sue Spading aim for the pocket. Lloyd is a graduate of Northwestern University. He has sung as a baritone soloist with Wayne King on several tours.

WATER ACROBATICS OFF-STAGE. Bev Hoaglund and Tom Netherton cool off in the hotel pool before getting ready to join the rest of the Lamplighters for their evening show. Bev has also appeared in the Minneapolis area and at the Playboy Club in Kansas City. Tom began singing while in the service. He appeared in two television specials before joining the Lamplighters.

Collecting

with Grace Carolyn

If one were to name the favorite color for collectibles, it would have to be blue, for it seems that anything in blue sells better than its counterpart in other colors. The Danish Christmas plates are blue, and so are the many imitator plates which have appeared in recent years. Blue Willow is perennially popular, as are historical blue Staffordshire, Japanese blue Imari, Canton, Delft, Meissen Onion and the subject of today's column, flow blue.

Flow blue is not the name of a certain maker, nor the product of any one country, although the English type is best known. The name comes from the fact that the deep cobalt blue color has bled through, or "flown" through the body of the china during firing, and has often blurred and smudged on the face, making it difficult to distinguish the pattern. Luckily, most flow blue is well marked on the reverse, and it is possible (although expensive) to accumulate a complete set in your favorite pattern.

THE MOST PRODUCTIVE years for this china were 1830 to 1900. Early examples usually have an Oriental design, with little or no gilt trim. Cups are likely to be handleless, and saucers deep. The two examples shown are from the early period, dating about 1840. The pattern name is Scinde, made by J. and G. Alcock. Another similar Scinde pattern was made by Thomas Walker about the same time. Both companies were English. Scinde, pronounced "Cindey," which was an early name for "China," is one of the most desirable and expensive patterns. A coffee pot, such as the one shown, in good condition would be worth over $100.

Duplicate names are common in flow blue. Patterns were sometimes registered, but no one was prevented from using the same name for a different pattern. This can be quite unsettling when ordering a piece by mail, and finding it doesn't match at all. I soon learned to give not only the pattern name, but manufacturer as well.

THE OLDER FLOW blue is apt to be of the heavy ironstone quality, while the later may be of porcelain, semi-porcelain or common pottery. It is well to consider the type of china when pricing a piece, for the easily chipped pottery should be less. Since this was household ware for so many years, the attrition of hard use has made it difficult to find pieces in good condition. Brown stains may sometimes be removed with a bath in chlorine bleach. Beware of chips which have been colored with blue paint in an attempt to conceal them, but if you are seeking only cabinet pieces and don't intend to use them, chips or cracks aren't so important.

Flow blue, once the stepsister to the fine historical blue wares, little documented and considered a lowly subject, has finally come into its own. Much of it is now well over a century old and has acquired the respectibility of antique status.

FLOW BLUE was one of my first antiques when I purchased an entire set in a second-hand store back in the good old days of collecting. The set cost less than one large piece would today. I am always on the lookout for handleless cups (made with no handles,) a tea pot, large pitcher and better butter dish than the one I have.

If you have a question on your antiques, please write Grace Carolyn Dahlberg, in care of Paddock Publications, Suburban Living, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Those of general interest will be answered in the column, and all will receive a reply if you enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

The Book Stall

by United Press International

"THE GENERAL WAS A SPY," BY HEINZ HOEHNE AND HERMANN ZOLLING "THE SERVICE," BY REINHARD GEHLIN
Coward McCann & Geoghegan and World respectively, ($10 each).

Two recently published books present sharply divergent views of West Germany's recently retired Lt. Gen. Reinhard Gehlen, one of the top spymasters of the 20th century.

"The General Was a Spy," by Heinz Hoehne and Hermann Zolling, derives from an essentially hostile series printed by the West German magazine Der Spiegel. "The Service" is presented as Gehlen's own memoirs.

As an officer of the German general staff during World War II, Gehlen developed an efficient network of spies in Russia and eastern Europe. After the war, he offered his organization and files first to the CIA and later to the Bonn government. He was the chief of West Germany's Federal Intelligence Service (BND) from 1956 to 1968.

During the first decade of the Cold War, Gehlen's agency was one of the West's best informed sources about events and intentions behind the Iron Curtain. Communist infiltration and mellowing Western attitudes reduced its efficiency in that area, but it expanded into other fields.

One of the BND's last great coups under Gehlen was its prediction, accurate to the day and almost to the hour, of the outbreak of the 1967 Middle East war.

Hoehne and Zolling concede Gehlen's strengths, but are pitiless about what they consider his weaknesses. In particular, they accuse him of using the BND for internal political espionage.

The Service denies this, and argues in general that Gehlen's administration was the best that was possible in what must rank high in any selection of the worst of all possible worlds.

by Tom Von Malder

Two brilliant statements on life in America have just been released. They are David Ackles' "American Gothic" (Elektra 75032) and Randy Newman's "Sail Away" (Reprise MS 2064).

In many ways the two men and their work are quite similar. Both are highly literate and often amusing in their writing. Both also have been around for years with little public recognition.

Ackles' album covers the broad spectrum of everyday life in a way that few other albums ever have. The tales are simply told but are so true that one oftens finds himself nodding in agreement.

David Ackles

THE TITLE track tells of small town marital unfaithfulness. Another tells of a "One Night Stand" and love is the theme of a beautiful ballad, "Love's Enough." "Midnight Carousel" is every restless young girl's dream come true.

Other themes he touches on are divorce, war, pollution and over-urbanization. and the American Indian's plight. (The last is in the remarkable "Blues For Billy Whitecloud," a song that would justify getting this album by itself.)

The album is a compression into 11 well done songs of all the day-to-day livings, yearnings and hopes of Americans. It is the type of album that sticks with you even after only one hearing.

BUT MEMORABLE as the words are, it is Ackles' music that astonishes. It is a synthesis of so many styles of music that it can leave you breathless.

Listen to the album. Catch the traces of Stravinsky, Aaron Copeland, Rodgers and Hammerstein, Kurt Weill, Gershwin and Gilbert and Sullivan. Hear country sounds, ragtime, gospel, boogie-woogie and uses of minor keys. Plus a 10-minute symphonic poem.

All this and more in a stunning return for Ackles who has spent the last two years in England collecting his thoughts. Ackles' arrangements of the songs are also impressive, as is Bernie Taupin's producing debut.

Newman attacks a song with more wit than Ackles. He'll make his points through humor — whether it is the improbable sales pitch of the title song (made by a slaver to some Africans) or by letting God muse why man still loves Him.

AS A PERFORMER, Newman has written a number of big songs for other people, including Harry Nilsson and Three Dog Night. But as usual, a writer singing his own songs can get much more of the original feeling into them. Newman can get various points across just by changing his vocal approach to a song.

Other noteworthy songs in the album include "Dayton, Ohio — 1903" which is sung with just the right amount of boredom to get the thought across — it was boring in those days. "Old Man" contains some real pathos, while "Simon Smith and the Amazing Dancing Bear" is a carefree delight.

Both Ackles and Newman should be "discovered" this year as major talents, even though some people have been aware of it for years. Any success they do receive will be deserved.

Usually a group will not mess around with a successful formula for making records. But Wishbone Ash is different. They have made changes and they are for the better.

VOTED BEST new group of 1971 by readers of "Melody Maker" and "Sounds," Wishbone Ash is a good band and "Argus" (Decca DL 7-5347) is their best yet.

The guitar-domination of their two earlier albums has been dropped in favor of strengthening the vocals. It works fine, especially in the folk-like "Leaf and Stream" and the first section of "Time Was" (which then takes off as a hard rocker). But their distinctive double lead guitar harmony is still an integral force behind their success.

Entr'acte

Don Johns loves to make pots.

"I enjoy the freedom of clay and its versatility. It is loose and free," he said.

Johns is currently exhibiting his work in the summer craft show at Countryside Art Center in Arlington Heights. Also on exhibit through the end of this month are textiles by Richard Daehnert, Stana Coleman and Jane Redman, glass by Kent Ipsen, pottery by Gregor Giesman and Mike Zilka and leather by Larry Down.

Don Johns divides his time equally between slab-built and wheel-thrown pots. Though no set theme is carried throughout his work, his pots are most distinctive. He might use printer's type to stamp in letters and numbers on his pots, or apply small clay faces or silkscreen on decorations. On one piece is a silkscreened tombstone motif from a photograph taken at the Field Museum.

JOHNS IS MOVING away from museum shows, though he has won prizes in national exhibitions for both his potery and his glass, a secondary interest of his.

"I do not agree with what is being chosen. I find a sincere lack of design," he said. "Being different is not the same thing as design."

"Many craftsmen today do not know their material," he continued. "I have seen cracked and glued pieces exhibited."

An art instructor at Elgin Larkin High School, Johns is spending the summer tarveling to art fairs, studying at Northern Illinois University but mostly, he said, "making pots."

The Barrington Players Guild, now entering its tenth season, will be performing "The Man Who Came To Dinner" at Barrington High School Aug. 4, 5, 11 and 12.

Written by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, "The Man Who Came To Dinner" revolves around a famous celebrity, Sheridan Whiteside, who finds himself forced to take up temporary residence in the home of the Stanleys, after having injured himself on the ice outside their front door. The Stanleys find their lives competely disrupted by the strange entourage of people and animals that seem to follow Whiteside wherever he goes.

Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Reily of 884 Horne Terr.

The award was presented by outgoing president Bob Johnson and his wife, Shirley, who together formed the theatrical organization 13 years ago.

Needlepoint Breaks Out Of Old Style

by E. MICHAEL MYERS

HOUSTON (UPI) —Roosevelt Grier, the beefy former tackle for the Los Angeles Rams, would look and feel silly stitching a needlework of a lady bug. So would millions of football widows and imaginative businessmen.

Mikel Shulman believes so. He wants to free an art he believes is restricted by the designs elderly ladies enjoyed 100 years ago.

"I have introduced more technical things," the New York City and Miami needlepoint designer says. "Here is an art form that has been oblivious to the 20th century. Grandma did them one way — but women today aren't the same.

"They aren't so uncreative they have to do things done 100 years ago, like lady bugs."

THEY LIVE IN the 20th century and their imagination should express it, the 33-year-old artist said. Needlepoint can break out of its centuries-old style. Shulman believes sports offers many opportunities for development.

"It does not seem 'feminine' this way," he said. "Guys don't want to do flowers. They want to relax. So they can do sports in needlepoint. There is generally a stigma attached to guys who do needlepoint — but Rosy Grier does it."

Sketching sports scenes and designing an "action" canvas is a large part of Shulman's businesses. Several years ago he did a needlepoint design for a friend and realized the creative possibilities of the field. Shulman developed the art form into a profitable needlepoint canvas business in Farmingdale, N. Y. Today the father of three young boys regularly travels the country, designing individual works and specializing in sports works.

SHULMAN DESIGNED A canvas for the Super Bowl, canvasses for the winners of the U. S. Open and now a "sporting teams of Texas" series. The former public relations executive sketched scenes of pitcher Don Wilson of the Houston Astros, a scene from a Houston Oilers football game and of Rudy Tomjanovich of the Houston Oilers.

"Imaginative people are looking for things to relate to, something artistic," Shulman said of his work. "For the male football fan it can be a scene that shows aggression, a play action. For the woman it must be modern.

"This art shows women they need not be limited by antiquity," he said.

"It can be kicky and modern."

TAG GAMES: OLD AND NEW

By Marilyn Hallman

Tag is an old time favorite for the back yard. But have you tried these tag games?

Wood Tag: "It" chases the other players, trying to tag them. They are safe only when they are touching a fence, a tree, or something else which is wood. During one game, a player may touch wood no more than three times. First player tagged becomes the new "it."

Stoop Tag: A player is safe from being tagged only when he squats on the ground. He can do this only three times during any game.

Shadow Tag: Instead of tagging the players, "it" tries to touch their shadows.

Donkey Tag: Players form a long line with their arms around the waist of the child in front of them. "It" tries to tag the "donkey's tail" — the last person in line. The donkey tries to prevent this by moving around quickly. If the "donkey tail" is tagged, he becomes "it," and the old "it" goes to the head end of the donkey.

Cross Tag: "It" calls the name of the player he wants to chase. If another player runs between "it" and the person he is chasing, "it" must then chase that runner instead. Players may keep crossing his path until one is tagged.

Festival Theatre Announces Playbill For Coming Season

Schaumburg Festival Theatre recently announced the plays to be staged during its 1972-73 season.

The first theatrical offering will be "David and Lisa." It is being directed by Raoul Johnson with production dates of Aug. 19, 20, 26 and 27.

Other plays that will be presented later this season are "A Thurber Carnival," "Dark of the Moon" and "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

Four local directors submitted a total of 26 plays for consideration by the theater guild's executive board. The final selection was based on the board's desire to provide a balanced program of drama and comedies that will appeal to audiences of all ages.

SEASON PASSES are now available for the five productions at a 20 per cent discount. All season pass holders will be listed in the playbills and receive free tickets to the Young People's Show in December. Adult passes at $8 and student passes at $5 may be purchased through the ticket chairman, Sandra Reimann, 882-1894.

Schaumburg Festival Theatre operates year round and, in addition to staging major productions, sponsors a playwriting contest and youth art festival. Festival Theatre also has an active talent bank, touring company and teenage workshop. Membership is open to residents of all areas. Information about the organization is available through 894-2380.

Canadian Problem

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) —American entertainers are finding it increasingly difficult to get engagements in Canada. A spokesman for the Country Music Association blames this on red tape involved in getting permission for Canadian performers to work in the United States. As a result, he said, the Canadian government has decided to limit U. S. performers in Canada.

California Girl Is June Bride Of Glenn Dieball

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Dieball

Glenn Harold Dieball, son of the Melvin Lasekes of 868 Capri Drive, Palatine, took Mildred Ellen Biggerstaff as his bride June 17 in the First United Methodist Church of Riverside, Calif. The bride is the daughter of T. Sgt. and Mrs. Guy D. Biggerstaff of Riverside.

Glenn, a graduate of Arlington High School, is now in the U. S. Air Force. He came home from DaNang, Vietnam, for the wedding but has since returned to the same base.

HIS BRIDE attended Riverside City College and works at the local public library.

Her maid of honor was Charlene Swem of Phoenix, Ariz., and bridesmaids were Darlene Kreamier, Doris MacFarlane and Toni DiDominicus, all of Riverside. Robin DiDominicus, 6, was flower girl. She and Toni are the bride's cousins.

Chuck Nolting of Arlington Heights was best man. Ushers included Ken Biggerstaff, the bride's brother, and Mildred's cousins, Ron and Nicky DiDominicus.

The wedding reception was held on the patio of the church. The couple honeymooned in San Diego.

Newlyweds Build A Home

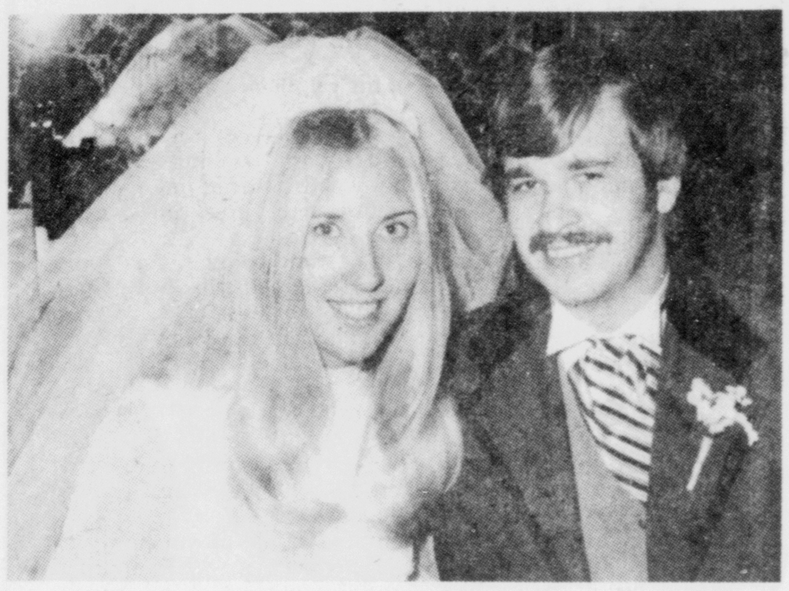
Not only are Linda C. Biebel of Mount Prospect and John R. McCabe of Chicago newly married but they are awaiting moving day into a new home in Palatine. The couple exchanged vows July 1 in St. Cecilia Church, Mount Prospect.

Until their home is ready for occupancy, Linda and John are living with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Biebel, 1823 Willow, Mount Prospect. John is the son of the Earl McCabes of Chicago.

The Biebel family formerly lived in Des Plaines, where Linda attended St. Patrick Academy. She earned a degree in education at Northern Illinois University in 1971 and has been teaching in the Barrington school district. Her husband studied at Wright Junior College and is with Carpet Mates, Chicago.



Mr. and Mrs. John McCabe

AS SHE ENTERED the sanctuary, the bride wore an ivory organza gown lavishly trimmed in beaded swiss lace. Appliques of the lace dotted the bodice with its long sheer sleeves and formed a graceful pattern on the front of the A-line skirt and chapel train. Linda chose a Camelot headpiece of lace and a triple-tier elbow-length veiling. Her bouquet was of ivory daisies, stephanotis and natural baby's breath.

Peggy Brockman of Mount Prospect was Linda's maid of honor, wearing a navy blue Empire dress with gold trim. The bodice of navy blue knit was complemented by a skirt or ribbon seersucker striped in gold, green, orange, yellow and lavender, with a wide ruffle at the bottom.

Peggy carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and deep blue straw flowers surrounded by camille leaves and tied with gold streamers.

THERE WERE three bridesmaids, all attired identically to the maid of honor. They were Mrs. Sheri McCabe, Itasca, the groom's sister-in-law, and two of the bride's friends, Barb Furlong and Corinne Ufferman of Chicago.

Phillip McCabe was his brother's best man and another brother, Donald of Itasca, ushered along with the bride's brother Michael, Glendale Heights, and Jerry Watson, Chicago.

Linda's cousins, Lisa and Lance Joaquin of Palatine, were also in the wedding party. Lisa, 11, was flower girl and Lance, 12, ring bearer.

A reception at Casa Royale in Des Plaines feted the newlyweds, after which they left for a week's honeymoon in Las Vegas.

Sharon Koehn Now Mrs. Art Ragland

Two Palatine residents were united in a candlelight double ring ceremony July 1 at Jerusalem Lutheran Church in Morton Grove.

Sharon Koehn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Koehn, became the bride of Arthur Ragland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ragland Jr.

Sharon's gown, made by her mother, sister and herself, was an organza over taffeta that featured a scoop neckline and full skirt. The bodice of the Empire dress, the long sheer sleeves and the chapel-length train were all embroidered with Venetian lace. The bride's chapel-length veil was held in place by a Camelot headpiece of matching lace.

SHE CARRIED a cascade of white phalaenopsis, yellow roses and orange baby's breath. "Something old" worn by the bride was a gold baby ring fastened to a chain around her neck. It belongs to her grandmother.

Maid of honor was the bride's sister, Judith Koehn. Bridesmaids were Peggy Rice of Palatine, Alison Morin, a cousin from Bay City, Mich., and Mary Ragland, the groom's sister.

The attendants wore bright yellow chiffon over taffeta gowns fashioned with scoop necklines and long sheer sleeves. The cuffs and Empire waistlines were trimmed in orange and green floral trim. Each girl wore in her hair a bow made out of the same fabric of the dresses. They carried floral balls of carnations, abbey roses and baby's breath.

LARRY SHEAFFER, a friend of Arthur's from Aurora, was best man. Ken Gue of Schaumburg, Scott Jensen of Palatine and the bride's brother Larry were ushers.

A dinner reception following the ceremony was held in the Grand Ballroom of Howard Johnson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ragland

The couple will be moving to Oak Park in September, and Joan will attend the University of Illinois Circle Campus. She is currently employed by Palatine Park District.

Her husband is with Aldens, Inc. in Chicago.

David Granzins Take A Camping Honeymoon

A month-long camping trip is about to end for newlyweds Virginia Ann and David Glenn Granzin. The couple were married July 1 in Rochester, N. Y., where both are working, and then left on an outdoor honeymoon that took them to the Rocky Mountains, the Grand Tetons, Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks.

Virginia is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kelly of Syracuse, N. Y. She is teaching in Rochester. David, son of Mrs. Esther Granzin of Arlington Heights and the late Glenn Granzin, works there for Eastman Kodak Co.

Their 11 a.m. vows were solemnized in St. Mark's Church, with a reception following at Heritage House for 120 guests.

THE BRIDE chose a long white organza gown with embroidery accents in pink. With it she wore a large white picture hat with a shirred organza brim and a long pink veil flowing from the back. She carried s single white rose with baby's breath and greens.

Virginia had just one attendant, her sister Mrs. John McGreal of Whitesboro, N. Y., who wore a two-toned dress designed with a deep pink bodice and floor-length floral skirt. She carried one deep pink rose combined with baby's breath and greens.

The bride's nephew, 6-year-old Daniel McGreal, was ring bearer.

Mrs. David G. Granzin

DAVID CHOSE a friend, William Altier of Plymouth, Minn., as best man and asked Lt. William Granzin, his brother, of Tacoma, Wash.; Charles Kroon, Rochester; and Robert Kelly, the bride's brother; to usher.

David Hedlund Goes To Sweden To Take Bride

Mr. and Mrs. David Hedlund

David C. Hedlund's Swedish pen-pal became his wife June 17 in a ceremony in Lundsbrunn, Sweden. The bride is Eva Brith K. Larsson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oskar Larsson of Tibro, Sweden. The groom's parents are the Fred Hedlunds of 508 N. Emerson, Mount Prospect.

The couple began corresponding in 1965 as a result of the Hedlunds' travels to their native Sweden. The romance blossomed as David visited Eva Brith in Sweden and she visited here.

The new Mrs. Hedlund's sister, Anita Larsson, was her matron of honor, and best man was James McVicker of Arlington Heights. Ushers were Ingar-Lill Janzon and Hakan Sterner of Tibro. The groom's cousins, Ronny and Peter Woullet, 9 and 6, of Tibro, were also part of the wedding procession. The boys led the couple to the altar and threw rose petals at them as they left the church.

The bride was formerly employed by the Handelsbanken (bank) of Tibro. The groom, a graduate of Prospect High School, attended Wright Junior College, Chicago, and the Navy's Nuclear Power and Electrical Technical schools. He also served in Vietnam.

David now works for Securitronics Corp. in Palatine. Since their wedding and a two-week honeymoon in Sweden, the newlyweds are living in Arlington Heights.

A Very Personal Wedding Service

An informal, outdoor wedding in which the bride and groom designed and made their unusual attire and arranged the festivities in their own personal way took place July 1 in Inverness.

Students at the University of Illinois, Kate Bloodgood and Greg Kramer chose the garden of the bride's family home for their two o'clock wedding celebration.

The reception started first, under a large striped tent decked with white, blue and yellow balloons and streamers.

After all the guests assembled, they formed a large circle on the lawn, and the couple emerged from the woods to walk into the circle for the actual ceremony. Kate and Greg exchanged vows they wrote themselves in front of the Rev. Robert Koewing. They had no attendants.

During the service, Greg's brother Chip and his instrumental group played appropriate guitar music. Afterwards the circle of guests closed in on the newlyweds to express best wishes and happiness.

KATE IS THE daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Owen Bloodgood of Inverness. Greg's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Charles Kramer of Oak Park.

The two families have been linked in friendship for three generations since Kate's and Greg's paternal grandfathers were Alpha Kappa Lambda fraternity brothers and roommates at the University of Illinois.

For her wedding the bride designed her dress in pastel shades of pink, yellow, blue and green. The bodice was of pink dotted swiss and had yellow and white embroidered puffed sleeves. The skirt was three-tiered in checked gingham, one tier in pink, one blue and one green. Each tier was edged with hot pink grosgrain ribbon.

The bride wore no veil and carried no flowers, but she did braid small multicolored carnations into her hair.

GREG'S WEDDING attire was colorful, a pair of blue and red trousers topped by a bright yellow shirt with green collar. He made the outfit himself.

After the nuptials, at which 100 guests were present, the couple departed on a two-week camping trip to New York State.

They are now back in Champaign, where Kate is a student at the U of I and her husband is working for the American Oil Chemists Society.

She is a graduate of Fremd High School and Greg of Oak Park-River Forest High.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Because I've learned how important it is to keep warranties when buying most everything these days, I keep them all in one drawer. With them is a notebook on which I mark the date of purchase of each item, then add any service calls to the data. It's silly to try to remember all these details and putting them down in black and white helps future transactions. — Jenny S.

Dear Dorothy: Noticing various comments on the advantages of nonfat dry milk, thought I'd add my two cents' worth to the discussion. It's wonderful to take on picnics. I just add cold water when we get to our destination. Also when boiling potatoes for mashing I use the dry milk powder and as much of the potato water as necessary in the mashing. A lump of butter and you have as good mashed potatoes as you would want, besides including the nutrients usually thrown away in the water. — Helen Cook.

Dear Dorothy: Would you mind putting something in your column about never putting anything in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator or freezer unless properly wrapped in either foil or moisture-vaporproof paper? My mother misinterpreted the directions which said to remove the paper from the meat. who is now aware of this. — Rayana West.

Dear Dorothy: Inasmuch as I've always made cooking a hobby, I'm usually looking for shortcuts or ways to make the job easier. Trying to bone chicken one day, I found the job a cinch after the chicken was partially frozen. — Steven Daniel.

Gambling Losses Pushed Him To An 'Outfit' Loan, Then To The FBI

(Second in a Series.)
by MORT GOLDEN
As Told to Ira Berkow

On the morning of June 6, 1965, I woke up on a cot in a strange room. There was a marker on my chest. It read that I owed $50,000 from gambling losses from the night before. My signature was on it. A man was sitting nearby. He said I owed him the money. I didn't remember him, and I remembered only part of the night before.

I had gone with a friend to a big house somewhere in Indiana, just outside of Chicago. It was a gambling house, filled with crap tables and card tables. My friend said it was a syndicate gambling joint. I didn't care. I went readily. I had to go somewhere because I had just suffered what was then the most depressing, the most agonizing period of my life.

Two weeks before, my son David was born. The doctor told me that my son was fighting for his life. He had an incurable, deadly disease. Miracles happen. David hung onto life. After two weeks, the doctor said that he would live but that he would possible be blind for the rest of his life.

That was an awful blow. In the last two weeks I had hardly slept more than a couple of hours in a night. I remember stumbling from the hospital. I drove to a neighborhood restaurant in a fog of pity, self-pity, pity for my wife, pity for poor David. It sounds funny now, but I was drowning my sorrow in a bowl of chicken noodle soup when I saw this friend. He suggested the crap game. I was glad to be with someone. I was glad to be going somewhere — away.

I BEGAN to shoot craps. Not only was I losing myself in the game, but I was losing my money too. It was something like $300. That was a lot to me at the time. I was 26 then, and had gambled very little in my life — horses some, gin rummy some, not much else. I was an average, middle-class Jeiwsh business machines salesman. No gambler.

What happened that night? I don't know. Charles Siragusa, director of the Illinois Crime Commission and a man I came to deal with closely and at length, later suggested that I might have been drugged. Maybe. I'll probably never know.

What I do know was that I had an enormously heavy debt to pay. And I paid it within 10 days. I borrowed from everyone I knew, including business associates. No questions were asked and I got the money quite easily.

I never had had financial problems before. My problems came in paying those people back. I began to float checks; that is, borrowing from Peter to pay Paul. The trick is to keep the money circulating.

But there came a day, a few months after that disastrous night in Indiana, when either I came up with $3,000 by the next morning or my name and reputation in business would be ruined.

I WENT TO another friend and told him my situation. I know he knew Mafia people. He tried to talk me out of going to them for a loan. I said I had no choice, I was desperate. Mafia loan sharks do serve a purpose. They are there when a man who needs money has exhausted banks, friends — all other "legitimate" possibilities to obtain loans. You must go to them. They don't come to you and say, "Hey, Buddy, need a loan?"

After several phone calls, and dead-end appointments, and after much waiting — the Outfit checks their victims out thoroughly — we met two guys in a coffee shop. One was called "Radio." They asked me how much I needed and what for, and when could I pay it back. They said they'd have a guy meet me later that night after it was cleared. The guy never showed. I went home. At about 3 in the morning I got a call. It was from Dick Cardi, a former Chicago cop who was now a high Mafia loan shark man.

"Where were you?" he said, in his gruffest voice.

"Where was I? I waited for hours."

He apologized, said there must have been a mix-up. As I found out later, they were just testing me, wanting to know how I would react. He said to meet him the next night. I did some fancy footwork to delay my creditors for one more day, and met Cardi the next night in the same restaurant.

DICK CARDI is about 6-3, weighs about 240 pounds, dark-complexioned and looks tough as hell. He was incongruously dressed in a red knit shirt and black golf slacks.

We went to a nearby park, with "Radio" and his partner. As we walked there, I got a shiver of fright. Was this my last walk? Would I wind up dead in a car trunk? I had heard and read about the Mafia.

It was black in the park, except for a dim street lamp. I could barely make out Cardi's face. The terms, he told me, were for me to pay $600 interest on a $3,000 loan, at $50 a week minimum. He told me that if I kept my end of the deal that there would be no trouble.

"And sometimes kids get sick or something happens and you have to miss a payment, that's O.K.," he said. "We're human guys, not the criminals the paper prints us up to be. As long as you treat us legitimate you got nothing to be scared of."

THEN HE took out a roll of bills from his back pocket. He gave it to me. I put it in my picket.

"No," he said. "Count it."

I did. It was all there.

"You got a way home? You want us to escort you?" he asked, "It's your money now. If some character jumps you and takes it, it's your responsibility."

I thanked him, but said that I had a car and didn't foresee any trouble getting home.

My first loan was paid back on time. I made more loans when more checks that I had written had to be paid. And interest began to grow and grow. I began to gamble a lot. I went to Las Vegas, to Los Angeles, to Denver. My life was in a tailspin. It was an unbelievable two years. Finally, there was nothing left for me to do. I called the FBI.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Could you help me? Five years ago when I was expecting, my obstetrician told me not to consume salt or sugar because my body retained fluid which resulted in too much of a weight gain. Since that time I have used a salt substitute and liquid sugar substitute. Nevertheless, I've gained 20 excess pounds of weight.

Now I've read the label on both those products and both of them contain sodium. I thought this was the reason you couldn't use salt. What good does it do to use a substitute if it contains sodium too?

How big a chance would I be taking if I gave up salt altogether? There have been several members of my family who have had goiters, and what I want to know is, is there any other way I can get iodine if I don't use salt?

Dear Reader — The 20 extra pounds you've gotten have probably been from eating too many calories and not from using either salt or sugar substitutes. You are right, however, that it's the sodium in the salt that's associated with fluid retention. There's very little reason for having a salt substitute which contains lots of sodium.

There probably isn't enough sodium in the artificial sweetener that you use to make that much difference. Neither of these preparations would have iodine in them anyway, so the likelihood is that you're not getting any iodine from the salt substitute you are using.

In any case, you have a good point. One of the major sources for iodine in most of the diet is iodized salt, and it's a good idea for people in most parts of the world to use iodized salt to prevent goiters.

Because of your family history, I think you might choose to see your doctor, and if he agrees with your not using salt, he might choose to give you some medicine with some iodine in it that you could take regularly. This is often done in the treatment of goiters that are caused by iodine deficiencies. He might also want to look into your thyroid status to see if it has anything to do with that extra 20 pounds of weight you've gained. Seafood often contains appreciable amounts of iodine and that's one dietary source. Many city water supplies contain iodine.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Do you believe in hypnosis for losing weight?

Dear Reader — Yes, if it is combined with suggestions for a sensible, well-balanced diet. It would be very important that the hypnotic suggestion not be tied to some sort of crash or fad diet, which might be injurious to the health. There are a lot of good things that can be accomplished with hypnosis. In this instance, if it works for an individual, it would work by reinforcing the person's desire not to eat excessive calories.

Win At Bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Some years ago the late Walter Malowan reported on how he was being victimized by the jack of clubs. Here we find California expert Jim Kauder reporting on how the same card mistreated him.

Jim's two-diamond call was one of those weak two bids after which the partnership proceeded to a good diamond game.

West opened the ace of spades and continued with the deuce. East won the trick with the queen and shifted to a trump. Jim won in his own hand; ruffed his last spade in dummy; led and ruffed a heart with both opponents playing low; entered dummy with a trump; cashed the ace of clubs; ruffed another heart; drew East's last trump and stopped to count.

West had discarded the jack of spades and jack of hearts on the last two trump leads. Obviously his last four cards were three clubs and the ace of hearts. East had to be holding two hearts, the king of spades and one club.

The odds in favor of finding the jack of clubs in the West hand were three to one so Jim made the expert's play of leading his 10 of clubs and letting it ride. East cashed a surprise trick with his singleton jack and the expert had paid the penalty of knowing too much.

11 Park Districts Bid For Olympics

This week's rain hasn't dampened the hopes of 11 park districts that have been vigorously preparing for the 6th Annual Paddock Olympics Tuesday and Wednesday at Conant High School.

Most of the entries of Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Elk Grove, Hanover Park, Hoffman Estates, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Salt Creek, Schaumburg and Wheeling have been conducting Olympic trials in their own districts for selection of prime contenders in next week's World Series of Track.

At this writing, host Schaumburg Park District was applying the finishing touches to its staff that will actually conduct the proceedings and to a 4 x 8-foot scoreboard that will keep the numbers game up to date and for everyone to see.

Boys and girls between the ages of 8-13 as of Tuesday are eligible for the 10 events offered by the Olympics. Individual competition in standing long jump, 50 and 100-yard dashes, jump rope, softball throw, kickball, tennis singles and basketball free-throw shooting are sure to challenge the contestants.

Teams will be allowed to compete against one another in the events of shuttle relays and tug-of-war in search of the immense traveling trophy that will be presented to the winning park district at the conclusion of Wednesday's program.

In addition, every participant in the 6th Annual Paddock Olympics will receive a patch while the first five positions in each individual event and top three in the team competition will be rewarded with ribbons.

Kickin' It Around

Bob Frisk Is On Vacation. His 'Kickin' It Around' Column Will Resume Upon His Return.

ANDERSON ANTICS. Russ Anderson, Park Ridge's leading hitter, makes it safely to third as the outfield throw eludes Arlington's Dave Zare Saturday. Still frozen in his slide signal is Coach Jerry Romes. Zare and the All-Stars had the last laugh later in the game with a seven-run inning, Zare coming up with the key blow — a three-run double. # Little League Baseball—Good, Bad

THE BEST IN / Sports

NEW YORK (UPI)—Little League — good or bad?

The question has been tackled by psychologists, doctors, parents, friends and enemies of players. Depending on the aim one takes, the answer is either — "good" or "bad."

Psychologists don't like Moms and Dads who push their kids to tears before, during or after a game. The game's supposed to be fun.

Physicians often don't like the stresses put on developing bones — especially those involved in the pitching of a curve ball.

Parents usually are wild about the game, especially seeing their son win out over some other couple's child.

Leaders of women's liberation hate the all-male aspect of Little League — a practice to abhor until the stereotyping of sex roles ends.

Dr. Wesley W. Hall, who practiced medicine in Reno, Nev., for 26 years, has been a part-time high school and college team physician for most of his professional career, is one sports enthusiast who doesn't count Little League out. The president of the American Medical Association, Hall has served as Boxing and Wrestling Commissioner in Nevada. He is interested in some changes to make sports safe-not just Little League.

"I love to see youngsters play baseball," Hall said. "It's good for them — if their coaches are wise people, and the mothers and fathers don't push too hard.

"But I think coaches should know that when they allow or encourage 10-and 11-year-olds to throw curve balls, they're running the risk of giving that youngster a sore elbow for the rest of his life."

At Little League age, the bones aren't developed yet. To accommodate the growth of the long bones the ends are attached to the shaft by cartilage which with maturity will disappear as the end becomes permanently attached.

But the motion used to toss a curve is a twisting one and that, in combination with the leverage action of the elbow, can spell future trouble for the young pitcher whose bone-ends are not anchored permanently.

"For a period," Dr. Hall said, "I was taking care of the Reno Silver Socks. That's class A professional ball. Three boys came in. All had elbow trouble and all three had played Little League ball.

"I asked them out of every 10 balls that you pitched when you were in Little League, how many were curves? Nine out of 10. Now that's too much of a strain on a mature pitcher's arm, let alone on a kid's. No wonder all three had elbow problems."

Pint-sized football, meanwhile, draws six notices from Hall.

"A Little League football circuit was started in Reno not too long ago," he said. "The first year there were three fractured legs. Those kids simply aren't fast, they're not shifty and they get hit. And at their age their homes are still pretty tender."

Hall contends that boys nine years old are too young to suit up.

What about high school football? Listen to the doctor.

"When my boy started to play football in high school he had a 16 inch neck. By the time he was a senior, after a few years of blocking with his headgear, his neck had gone to 18 inches.

"Now I'm not about to criticize the way kids are taught to block, but if they didn't wear such godawful hard helmets there wouldn't be as many ruptured spleens and bruised kidneys in football. Those helmets are just like battering rams.

"When I was in my last year of medical school, we did a series of urinalysis on football players. Seventy per cent of them had microscopic blood in their urine, some had enough to color it.

"Sure the body is resilient and kidneys heal, but what concerns me is the total effect after a few years of the kidneys being bruised regularly."

Hall would like to see the soft plastic helmet become a standard part of the football uniform. The new helmet protects the cranium but is not a potentially aiming guided missile.

The doctor also has no forgiveness in him for the coach who will endanger the health of a player by sending him back into a game after he is knocked out.

Brain damage doesn't show up immediately on an electroencephologram, but takes up to three days before it can be detected. In the meantime, if a player is sent back with even slight tearing of the brain tissue, his reaction time and reflexes will have been slowed just enough so that he is open to still more injuries. Violent jarring in itself might be enough to cause further tearing of the brain.

"It's a game," Dr. Hall said, "Don't endanger a boy's life."

'Nice Curve.' 'Huh? That Was My Knuckle!'

Legion Tourney Switch— Now Single Elimination

Gene Sackett, chairman of Ninth District baseball, has announced a severe reorganization of the league tournament to select a representative to the Cook County playoffs.

The tournament was originally designed as a four-day double-elimination affair, but the incessant rain Wednesday and part of Thursday has forced Sackett to revamp the tourney into a three-day single-elimination setup. Instead of playing 10 or 11 games (depending on whether or not a team which reaches the finals is undefeated) the Ninth District will now play only six or seven games.

Contacted Thursday, Sacket said, "I've been up since 6 a.m. this morning trying to figure out what to do. The weather is killing us and there is just no other choice. We can't be pulling kids out of work to play during the day and it is no good to play Sunday morning. Besides, I've been to all the fields and they are 2½ inches deep in mud. And they're not drying a bit."

Asked if the single-elimination tournament was legal, Sackett replied, "All we have to do is determine a winner from this league in any way we want to. Other leagues don't even hold tournaments. We're the only one in the state that does.

"It's too bad it has to be this way but it can't be helped. If people don't like it, tough."

The new Ninth District tournament will begin today at 5 p.m. with Des Plaines taking on Norwood Park at Forest View High School and Palatine playing Schiller Park at Recreation Park.

The winner of the Palatine-Schiller Park contest will advance to a 1 p.m. Saturday game with Park Ridge. The victor in the Des Plaines-Norwood Park encounter will take on Logan Square at 4 p.m. Both games will be held at Recreation Park.

The two winners of the two Saturday games will then meet at 1 p.m. Sunday at Recreation Park and will play a best-of-three series for the right to represent the Ninth District in the Cook County playoffs. Two games will be played Sunday. If a champion is not determined at that time, the final game will be held Monday.

TOURNAMENT SCHEDULE
(Single-elimination tournament)

Games Friday

Game 1 — Des Plaines vs. Norwood Park, 5 p.m. at Forest View
Game 2 — Palatine vs. Schiller Park, 5 p.m. at Rec. Park.

Games Saturday

Game 3 — Park Ridge vs. Winner of Game 2, 1 p.m. at Rec Park
Game 4 — Logan Square vs. Winner of Game 1, 4 p.m. at Rec Park

Games Sunday

Games 5 & 6 — Winners of Games 3 and 4 will play best-of-three series for title, 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. at Rec Park.

Game Monday

Game 7 — Third game of championship series, 5 p.m. at Rec Park (if necessary)

THE DAMAGE HAD BEEN DONE when Park Ridge's Steve Sarcia tagged out Randy Jespersen Saturday in the All-Star game Saturday. A ball four passed ball set up two scoring opportunities after two were out. Jespersen tried to sneak to second during the commotion at home plate but was cut down. This Des Plaines player and his All-Star teammates went on to win easily, 11-3. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Record Field For Paddock Tourney

The all-time largest field will be on the tees at Golden Acres Country Club next month for the 23rd annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament.

Leading the list of 34 teams is the host course with eight foursomes. The 34 entrants is three more than competed last year at Buffalo Grove Golf Club. Those teams leading their leagues by Saturday will play in the tourney.

This year's tourney will be played on Sunday, Aug. 20 on two of Golden Acres' three nine-hole courses. This layout has hosted two other tourneys in the past.

The following leagues have entered the tourney:

Arlington Country Club — Arlington Elks Club, Desota, Inc., Ekco Products, Inc. and Friday Nighters.

Mount Prospect Country Club — Monday, Tuesday and Friday leagues.

Rob Roy Country Club — Tuesday Nighters, St. James, Fastex, Universal Oil and St. Alphonsus.

Golden Acres Country Club — City Products, Chemplex, Twinbrook YMCA, Parker-Hannifin, Hoffman Estates Men and three leagues from Western Electric.

Buffalo Grove Golf Club — Sara Lee and Buffalo Grove Men.

Old Orchard Country Club — Scratch League, Profexray, St. Colette's, NSMA and Arlington VFW.

Palatine Hills Golf Club — American Can Co., Union Oil Monday and Tuesday leagues.

Thunderbird Country Club — Arlington Twilighters and Countryside YMCA.

White Pines Golf Club — Tioga VFW.

All of the teams that represent these leagues will be vying for these prizes:

- Large traveling team trophy.
- 4 silver Revere bowls for first place
- 4 trophies for second and a like number for third.
- 8 golf passes for fourth.
- Dozen top quality golf balls for low net and a like quantity for low gross.
- $100 cash award for a hole-in-one.

As soon as the first-place team is determined, secretaries are urged to get the entry blank with accompanying check in the mail promptly. This will greatly aid the tourney committee in setting up the tourney.

Right-hand drive, sweeping fenders, folding windscreen, cut-down doors and 19-inch wire wheels.
Room enough for two. And fun enough to breed a generation of sports car enthusiasts.
That was the MG-TC. Behind its wheel, thousands of Americans first discovered the joy of downshifting through a curve and the quickness of sports car handling.
Today that car has evolved to the MGB. Still pure sports car. Still most at home on twisting ribbons of almost forgotten scenic route where cars go to be driven, not scorched off the line in a brute display of acceleration.
As Motor Trend reported in October, '71— "You can find them any day on any piece of twisting pike . . . leaving the bigger 'now' cars in their wake."
Yet today's MGB is equally at home on six-lane expressway. With direct rack-and-pinion steering, 10.5-inch front disc brakes, race - seasoned suspension, 4-speed close-ratio gearbox and a high performance 1798 c.c. overhead valve engine — all the world is its road.
Even in the fiercely competitive world of racing, MGB excels in its class. It's the reigning SCCA National Champion in E Production.
MGB also sports reclining bucket seats, full carpeting, leather wrapped steering wheel, oil cooler, and full sports car instrumentation including tachometer and trip odometer.
What about you? Do you want to discover or re-discover the sheer joy of sports motoring?
If so, see you at Koske's.

MARK'S MISTAKE. A Mark Leonhard fastball sails past first base giving Steve Bobowski a free ticket to second Monday night. Logan Square's Bobowski had chopped the ball down the third base line and Leonhard had to hurry his throw to first baseman Dave Giles. Arlington's Leonhard made sure Bobowski was left stranded on base, however, by one-hitting the Lions, 9-0.

Olympic Feats Of 1912

(One of a series on extraordinary happenings in each of the 16 modern Olympic Games.)

STOCKHOLM, 1912 — The sad, tragic figure of the Fifth Olympic Games was America's all-around athlete, Jim Thorpe, who scored overwhelming victories in the Pentathlon and Decathlon.

But he was to hold his Olympic gold medals for less than a year. On February 6, 1913, it was revealed that Thorpe had once accepted money for playing in minor league baseball.

• • • •

Three other American athletes also had trouble at the Olympics. D. Kahanamoku, K. Huszach and P. McGillivaray qualified easily in the second rounds of the 100-meter freestyle swimming championship at Stockholm on Sunday morning, July 7, 1912.

Then, with the assurance of officials that they had already qualified for the Olympic final the following morning, they cheerfully left the swimming stadium. But the same officials later decided that semi-finals would be held and they duly ran them off.

Not unexpectedly, this caused trouble when the three Americans arrived for the final the following morning and discovered that they had been eliminated — by default.

However, a compromise was reached. The three Americans would swim in a special 100-meter race and provided they surpassed the time of the slowest qualifier in the semi-finals proper, they would be in the final.

Both Kahanamoku and Huszach managed to do this and, indeed, the former, in a blaze of temper, covered the course in a new world and Olympic record of 62.4 seconds. Duke Kahanamoku went on to take the gold medal and Huszach the bronze.

The model depicts the 80,000-capacity Olympic Stadium, where the opening ceremonies for the games will be held on Aug. 26. Of special interest is the 9,000-seat Swimming Stadium where the winners of the Olympic Diving Trials, held in Park Ridge, will compete for the gold, silver and bronze medals.

How You Can Check Car's Cool System

According to J. L. Yung, Ford Customer Service Division's Chicago district manager, a "do-it-yourself" check of your car's engine cooling system and air conditioner can help you avoid a costly breakdown or a spoiled vacation trip in the hot summer weeks ahead.

The Ford executive recommends the following cooling system check:

HOSES— Squeeze radiator and heater hoses for soft or brittle spots that indicate a need for replacement. White or rust-colored stains near hose clamps or elsewhere on the hose usually point to a loose connection or leak.

BELTS — Inspect fan and other drive belts for wear and tension. Belts that are worn, frayed or damaged should be replaced. Belts should give less than an inch under pressure from your thumb. If you're in doubt, ask your dealership's service department to check the belt with a tension gauge.

RADIATOR — Examine the surface of your car's radiator for dents or damage that might require repair. Also, make certain the radiator pressure cap locks firmly in place. If the spring on the pressure cap seems loose or weak, the cap may have to be replaced. (Use extreme caution whenever attempting to remove a pressure cap while the engine is still hot.)

COOLANT — The anti-freeze and water solution in your radiator should reach to within an inch of the radiator's filler neck or to the cold fill mark on the side of the radiator. If coolant is dirty or rusty, the system should be flushed and refilled with a fresh solution. If the system requires frequent amounts of additional water, a more thorough check by a service technician is advisable.

Air conditioning problems are more difficult to pinpoint, the Ford expert noted. However, a noticeable drop in cooling efficiency or a groaning noise when the air conditioner is first turned on are two common signs that professional service may be needed.

Although nearly 30 million air-conditioned cars will be on the road by the end of 1972, few car owners realize that auto air conditioners should be checked by a trained mechanic at least once a year. Items that require attention include the air conditioner's compressor drive belt. refrigerant level, and attaching bolts and brackets.

Meadows Pony League Series Slated

The Cardinals of the Pony Division in the Rolling Meadows Baseball league go into the World Series tonight with an 18-2 record, the best ever posted in the 14-year history of the league.

The Redbirds, managed by Tom Dunlavy, ended their season Tuesday night by defeating the Cubs 9-1 with Joe Nunez chalking up his fourth win.

The Redbirds No. 1 starting pitcher, John Igrasek, was nothing short of fantastic this season. Igrasek ended the regular season with 11 wins and one loss, pitching 73 innings, allowing 29 hits, striking out 141 while walking only 10 and allowing only five earned runs during the season.

Igrasek hurled two no-hitters. The fast balling pitcher hurled his second no-hitter in his last outing, striking out 18 batters. Igrasek's first no-hitter came in mid-season when he struck out 15 batters.

The Cardinals take a team batting percentage of .302 into the best -of-three game series against the Twins, who posted a 13-6 record while capturing the American division title.

TURNOUT DISAPPOINTING

Dear Paddock:

I was one of the few who turned out for the (Ninth District) Legion all-star baseball game last Saturday at Recreation Park and I was certainly disappointed in the small crowd.

Legion baseball is excellent for this age group (under 19 yars of age) and the competition in this area has been close and exciting all season. The all-star game is the biggest attraction in the league all year until the tournaments. Why don't people realize this and want to see the best local baseball, only a short drive from their homes?

The crowd was much bigger at last year's game at St. Viator, although Recreation Park is a better place to watch a game with far more seats. The all-stars put on quite a show of hitting and pitching in this year's game and many local boys were outstanding. Too bad there were not more people to see it and support the fine Legion baseball program.

A Concerned Dad

LEO FAN IS SORRY . . .

Dear Sirs:

So Leo (Durocher) is finally gone. I suppose all of you writers are happy, because you and reporters from other papers have been saying "Leo must go" for a long time.

But how fast people forget. The Cubs were a doormat when Durocher arrived and he built them up into a contender in one year. Would Cub fans rather the team stayed in or near last place instead of the exciting teams of recent years?

I can just hear the argument — leo did not win a pennant with good material. But there are many other reasons for this besides the manager, who always takes all the blame. Sometimes people are too demanding. Let's wait and see if the Cubs do any better without Leo (I doubt it) before we applaud his being fired.

Julie Christman
Arlington Heights

. . . SOX ROOTER IS, TOO

Dear Herald:

I am sorry to see that Leo Durocher was fired — not because I am a fan of Leo or the Cubs, but for the opposite reason. I am a White Sox fan and have no love for the Cubs. I was always secure in knowing they would never go anywhere with Durocher as long as P. K. Wrigley was dumb enough to keep him, because Leo caused nothing but resentment and dissension. Now, with him gone,nI am afraid the Cubs might start playing ball and get back in the race. But probably not, because they don't have anywhere near the material the Pirates have.

ALL-STAR ANALYSIS

Dear Sirs:

Well, I guess the (major-league) all-star baseball game showed us all which one of our Chicago teams still comes through with better clutch performances.

White Sox fans have been crowing all season that their team is taking over the city just because they have a better record than the Cubs at the moment. But there is a long way yet to go.

We all saw the "great" Wilbur Wood let down the entire American League by letting the Nationals tie it in the ninth inning, with none other than Billy Williams — the most underrated star in baseball — starting the rally with a solid single on the very first pitch. We also saw "slugger" Richie Allen fail to hit the ball out of the infield in four times at bat.

Look for more of the same in the second half when the Cubs charge toward first place and the Sox sink toward the second division.

By the way, when I reminded a Sox fan about the all-star game, he used the excuse that Allen hits well in daylight and is not a nighttime player. I had to disagree. Allen is a great night player — at the race tracks!

STAR PICKS UNFAIR

Dear Sports Staff:

After studying the major-league baseball all-star rosters and statistics, I can see why there have been so many complaints from fans and players.

Some of the top National Leaguers who were left off by Manager Danny Murtaugh were Manny Mota with a .333 batting average and Bobby Tolan with .299 and 52 runs batted in. Billy Williams with a .342 average (over .400 for the last month) and 23 home runs was not voted in by the fans but was a last-minute addition. So was Fergie Jenkins with 12 wins not to mention five 20-win seasons in a row.

Willie Mays made the team with a .237 average. I admit that Mays is one of the greats of the game, but that's all in the past. I thought the 1972 all-star game was supposed to be for 1972 all-stars, not those from past years.

Also, two great relief pitchers did not make it — Sparky Lyle of the Yankees and Dave Giusti of the Pirates (14 saves and 1.91 earned-run average).

The voting privilege should be taken away from the fans and given back to the players and coaches. They know who is best and the fans obviously do not.

A Volkswagen Makes For A Strange Football

Football in July? Yes, and it will be happening at the Waukegan Speedway Sunday night, July 30, on the specially prepared infield . . . and just so the stock car fans aren't disappointed . . . the players will use automobiles and the "football" will be a Volkswagen!

"Stock car football" will be played for the first time in the Midwest at the Waukegan Speedway Sunday night, July 30, with the 4000-pound Buicks, Cadillacas and Chryslers tackling the Volkswagen football and trying to shove it over the opponents' goal line.

This special event . . . at no increase in admission cost . . . will be the first in a series with the winning team collecting $50 for their efforts and the losers going home with steaming radiators, buckled fenders and flat tires.

Promoter Gordon Sill of the Waukegan Speedway will be marking off the infield area at the Speedway and the opposing teams will meet in two 10-minute halves seeing who can score the most points.

When the opening whistle blows . . . the question will be : Will the (Volkswagen) football go north, south, east, west or straight up when the cars charge it? The fans on hand July 30 will find out.

The Waukegan Speedway is located one-quarter mile east of Route 41 on Washington Street near Waukegan. Late model sportsman stock cars race there every Saturday and Sunday night with bonus street car races and special events. Time trials start at 7:45 with the first race at 8:00 p.m. both nights.

Busy Raceway Week Ahead; Monza Classic Set Sunday

One of the busiest weeks of the season is scheduled at Raceway Park, 130th and Ashland Ave. in Blue Island, climaxed with the annual Monza Classic Sunday night.

Late Model stocks and Super Six cars share the racing programs on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights, with 30-lap features for Late Models and 20-lap events for the hard driving Super Sixes. Six 10-lap heat races, three in each division, plus a six-lap Trophy dash round out the cards.

In addition to the regular stock car racing program Friday night, an extra added attraction will be the return appearance of the Mustang Hell Drivers, who will present their "World Series of Thrills" just before the start of the night's racing, beginning at 8 o'clock. The Hell Drivers, in new 1972 Mustang cars, offer precision driving, with intricate maneuvers performed over and between rampways. One of their top stunts has a car careening off a ramp at top speed and then circling the track while balanced precariously on its two left side wheels. Both men and women drivers compete in other breakneck stunts, winding up with a car flying off a ramp, soaring thru space and then crashing head-on into a group of parked cars.

Sunday night's big attraction is the annual Monza Classic which consists of three 30-lap races for Late Model cars, with the winner being decided on the best overall showing in the three races. In addition to the Monza Classic, a Demolition Derby will be held. A Demolition Derby is also slated for Friday night. Both Friday and Sunday nights will be "Giveaway" night, with dozens of valuable presents given to the holders of lucky seat stubs.

Time trials will start each night at 6:30, with the first race at 8 o'clock. Parking, as usual, is free.

Sox Defeat Brewers In Major League Series

In the Hoffman Estates Major League World Series, the Sox defeated the Brewers 5-4 in extra innings to take the Series two games to one in the best-of-three set.

After five innings of the final game, the score was knotted at 2-2. It remained that way until the 10th when the Sox scored three times in the top of the inning to take a commanding 5-2 lead and then watched a Brewer rally fall short as the Sox won 5-4.

Scott Eiklor was the winning pitcher over Dan Hayes. Paul Smith slugged a home run for the Sox and Ricky Broaddus doubled twice for the Brewers.

The series opened with the Sox taking a 5-0 shutout victory. Paul South allowed only two hits and struck out 11 Brewers. South helped himself with three his in that game and Jeff Johnson contributed a double. Fernando Carvabello doubled for the Brewers.

The Brewers came back to even the series at 1-1 by downing the Sox 3-4 in the second game. Dan Neybert picked up the win over Jeff Johnson.

Racers Have Star Classic

Santa Fe Speedway presents its second annual All-Star Classic this Saturday night with the All-Star Queen and her court honoring the winner of the special 100-lap feature race on the half-mile clay oval. More than 30 of Chicagoland's top clay oval pilots are expected to compete in the area's longest single race thus far in the 1972 season racing season — a fifty-mile event. Starting time is 8:30 p.m. with time trials set for 7:30 p.m.

Santa Fe Speedway will also host a complete 12-event stock car program on Sunday night with 25-lappers for late model and sportsman drivers on the quarter-mile track. Starting time for the Sunday night show is 8 p.m. with time trials preceding the opening race by one hour.

Favored in the All-Star Classic is point leader Dick Nelson of Chicago. Nelson, winner of eight features already this year, pilots a 1972 Chevelle. Other top drivers include hard-charging Al Johnson from Justice, Jim O'Connor of Kankakee, Wayne Etzel of Bourbonnais and Danny Albrecht of Palos Park.

Santa Fe Speedway's All-Star Classic will be presided over by Football Queen Patricia Helfricks of Northbrook. Miss Helfricks is a 20-year-old University of Illinois junior. Her court consists of Mimi Lee from Hazelcrest and Cynthia Camm from Calumet City.

Also vying for top driving honors and the "side benefits" of queenly attention will be some 30 sportsman drivers competing in a 30-lap race on Santa Fe's All-Star night. Favorite to capture the 30-lapper is Bobby Mann of LaGrange. Other top sportsmen include Art Fehrman from LaGrange, Phil LeGrand of LaGrange, Bill Knippenberg of Darien, Steve Mason from Chicago and Pat McCarty of LaGrange.

Santa Fe Speedway hosts stock car shows each Saturday and Sunday night. The southwest side clay oval also presents excusive American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned events every Wednesday night climaxed by the nationally significant Short-Track Grand National Championship on Friday night, Aug. 11.

Santa Fe Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Road.

Martin Fires Ace

Buffalo Grove Golf Club again lived up to its growing distinction as a haven for holes-in-one when Richard J. Martin of Arlington Heights registered the fifth ace at the course during this summer alone.

Martin's hole-in-one came last week on the 14th hole, a 160-yarder, on which he used a six-iron.

Muhammad Ali — Tower Of Babble?

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

LAS VEGAS, Nev. —(NEA) —And now the meandering caravan of Ali Babble, having played Las Vegas with the expected results, has moved on to Dublin, Ireland, where one Al (Blue) Lewis is the setup.

Then it's on to New York and aging Floyd Patterson; to Mexico City against some nondescript Mexicano; with Bob Foster at the end of the trail in Las Vegas or Houston or Albuquerque.

It gives you an idea what boxing's all about these days. It's a traveling carnival. And Ali Babble is both the shill and the guy in the tent who defies the local talent to stay in the ring with him the full distance.

The most impressive of Blue Lewis's credentials seems to be that he spent a stretch in the pen. Patterson is the aging psychic recluse whose talents are spent. The Mexican no one ever heard of. And Foster is a skinny guy who can't fight effectively over 179 pounds, a ballpeen hammer alongside a heavyweight sledge hammer.

Jerry Quarry, just disposed of, is a punched-up target who can't get his head out of the way. George Chuvalo before him was even worse.

This is the type of competition which Ali Babble flaunts as his testing ground for a re-match with Joe Frazier — while ridiculing Frazier's exercises against nothings like Terry Daniels and Ron Stander.

Ali's edge is that he has a sharper tongue and it produces greater paydays. From the Quarry put-down, he got 35 per cent of a closed circuit event which grossed $2 million and pulled down $400,000 at the gate, exceeding his half-million guarantee.

Before he could even thumb the money, he was already preparing the Irish for his invasion.

"I'm a greatly developed, artistic, scientific professional," he crowed in one big gulp. "I'm back. I'm ready to go 15. I'm better now than the first time I fought Liston."

Then to make sure the cascade of words didn't drown out the impact of the product, he cautioned, "Don't you listen to my mouth and let it overshadow my ability."

Frankly, the mouth is what makes him different and entertaining. A press interview with Ali Babble is a verbal sparring session. The bitterness has begun to seep out of him now that he's an old man of 30. He can kid himself and he can sit good naturedly next to Blue Lewis and extol him as "a big, black man who can punch — you've got to watch him."

In some ways it's a lot more fun than what we've been seeing in the ring because there's cruelty in the way Ali demeans an outclassed opponent, taunting him with gestures and words, lampooning the other man's best efforts, reducing the competition of a boxing match to a charade.

He'd be a lot more impressive if he'd just go about his business and quickly and professionally dispose of his game, overmatched punching bags.

Ironically, the arrogant postures in the ring are just what turn on Ali's adherents the most. It's really a sociological lesson to watch the crowd at one of his fights. Those for him most fanatically are the under-30s — both black and white — and they respond with almost a frenzy to his Ali shuffle and other extroversions. It's one big emotional jag, and Ali Babble plays it like a violin with staccato passages.

He's their symbol for defying the establishment, and Ali manages to put every opponent in the latter camp. His histrionics are also a psychological ploy to unnerve the other guy in the ring so just before the Quarry fight began he was in a violent debate with George Foreman.

Part of that was to condition Foreman for a future meeting. George is now the only legitimate contender around for both Ali and Frazier. He's also one of the two fighters least likely to be psyched out by Ali. The other is Frazier.

That's why neither qualifies for Ali Babble's monthly caravan.

Auto Club Midgets Coming

Santa Fe Speedway hosts its third United States Auto Club midget program this Friday night with more than 70 of the nation's top USAC midget chauffeurs expected to vie for 18 starting spots in the fifty-lap feature. The exclusive Chicagoland USAC card begins at 8:30 p.m. with time trials starting at 7:30 p.m.

Present national point leader Bill Englehart of Madison, Wisconsin, leads the star-studded midget field. Seven of the top ten USAC midget pilots will be entered in the seven-event card.

The field will include such stellar USAC midget drivers as Larry Rice, Linden, Ind.; Duane Carter Jr., Huntington Beach, Calif.; Dave Strickland, Englewood, Calif.; John Batts, Jamestown, Ind.; Tommy Astone, Fresno, Calif.; and Gary Ponzini, winner of Santa Fe's June USAC midget show from Morgan Hills, Calif.

Along with the 50-lapper on the quarter-mile clay oval, the program will also have four heats, a trophy dash and a 12-lap semi.

Santa Fe Speedway will also host a USAC midget program on Aug. 25. Chicagoland's busiest and most innovative racing oval presents exclusive American Motorcycle Association-sanctioned events every Wednesday night and hard-charging stock car shows each Saturday and Sunday night. The Speedway is located at 91st and Wolf Road.

MOST PEOPLE BUY IT BECAUSE IT'S A VOLVO FIRST. AND A STATION WAGON SECOND.

To spend good money for a wagon while ignoring the car that pulls it around is to put the cart before the horse.

Our Volvo 145 customers see things in their logical order of importance.

First: a Volvo has adjustable bucket seats for any body up to 6'6"; four-wheel power disc brakes; six coats of protection against rust; eight steel pillars to surround five human passengers.

Second: with the back seat down and the tailgate closed, our wagon will hold a 74" sofa. Or enough luggage for Swedes who travel more than any other Europeans.

So if you need a wagon, see us. We'll show you a Volvo.

Man Of Many Talents

Lucas Not Just Pro Cager

by MURRAY OLDERMAN

FOSTER CITY, CALIF. — (NEA) — Jerry Lucas will in short order become the tallest magician on record.

Back in Middletown, Ohio, Jerry was a shy kid who spurted inordinately to the height of six feet eight inches at the age of 14, and stopped abruptly.

There he met Hawkeye Harvey, who was in the trucking business. Hawkeye was ann amateur magician who flipped card tricks. Jerry was an attentive audience, and when he got out of high school Hawkeye was ready to show him the invisible deck trick. Jerry pulls it often.

He extends an invisible deck. You draw an imaginary card from it. "Put it back," orders Jerry, stretching out the pantomine. "Upside down." You then tell him what the make-believe card is. Jerry pulls a real deck from his inside coat pocket and spread it out, face up. Only one card is reversed. That's the card you named. It never fails.

Of course, Jerry's magical talents were always dwarfed by his ability as a basketball player — from the best high school player in the nation, to the best collegian in the nation (at Ohio State), to a pro career approaching its 10th year and in its most rewarding phase.

He was traded to the New York Knicks a year ago, and through an injury to Willis Reed was thrust into the vital pivot role on a team which reached the NBA championship finals.

"New York is the best place in the world to play basketball," he says. "The fans are the most sophisticated. It's fun to play in front of a crowd like that. The way the Knicks play basketball is the way it should be played. I had always wanted to play center in the NBA, but I was never thought of as a center because I'm 6-8."

New York also gave him exposure — two appearances on the Johnny Carson show, where the other facets of Jerry, his interest in magic and memory tricks, were revealed.

"They were my hobby for 20 years," he says. "But for 10 of those years not a soul knew about it. I was very withdrawn and shy."

One night at a party in college the kids were watching television, and Professor Backwards was on, spelling words in reverse.

"I can do better than that," Jerry announced solemnly. Give him a word or name and he would put its component letters in alphabetical order as fast as the person could say the word. For example: "example" is "aeelmpx."

Jerry also used to sit in the back of the family car on trips and count the painted dividing stripes on highways. Kansas, he says, is the most economical state. It has 108 broken stripes per mile. The norm is 132. California splatters the most, 208 stripes per mile.

He started memorizing phone books to while away dead time on pro basketball road trips. He almost had the San Mateo, Calif., phone book memorized when he was traded to the Knicks. Now he has memorized the first column on each of the first 500 pages of the Manhattan (New York) phone book. He is in the process of memorizing "The Godfather," which he read on a road trip.

Jerry also claims a couple of records

Bulls Sign Two Draft Picks

Jerry Pender, the Chicago Bulls' seventh-round draft pick, and Ron Manning, a supplemental pick, have both signed with the club, according to general manager Pat Williams.

Pender, a 6-2 guard from Fresno State, was voted the school's Athlete of the Year last season. He finished his college career with a 21-point average and was the team's top scorer. Pender placed sixth on the school's all-time scoring list with 1,142 points. Pender was elected the Most Valuable Player and was the team's leading free throw shooter.

Manning, a 6-7 forward from Manhattan College, has been tabbed as a tough player with a lot of desire and Williams said, "He could be easily a sleeper and surprise a great many people."

The Bulls have now signed nine rookies to contracts.

Parachute Meet Scheduled

Kersting Wins Golf Tourney Bid

Any doubts about Kersting Garden Center representing the Tuesday Division of the Mt. Prospect Twilight Golf League in the Paddock Publication Tournament were laid to rest Tuesday night as the Gardeners outmaneuvered Geo. L. Busse & Co. 6-4 and hit the July 29 deadline with 5½ points to spare.

Kersting's closest challenger, Kirchoff Insurance, sadly failed in the clutch, losing decisively 3½-6½ to Morton Pontiac. The loss not only knocked Kirchhoff out of a chance at the tournament but also dropped them down to third place, fractionally behind Mt. Prospect State Bank who whipped Busse-Biermann Hardware 8-2 and leapfrogged three notches to wind up in second.

Kruse's Tavern, last week's heroes, meanwhile lost to last place Illinois Range 6-4 which knocked the Schlitzers back to fourth place.

In the other matches Licht's Paint Store downed Annen and Busse Realtors 6½-3½, while Ed and Gil's Barber Shop and Louie's scratched away to a 5-5 tie.

Low shooter for the evening was Jim Driscoll of Geo. L. Busse & Co. who carded a 37 over the first nine.

Low net honors went to alternate Bill Scott with an unreal 48 gross and 26 net.

Birdies were reported by E. Spletzer and R. Becker on No. 1, L. Hauskey and W. White on the fifth, B. Skibbe on No. 10, J. Rice at the 1th and 13th, W. Lyman on No. 13, and P. Peterson at Nos. 14 and 17.

which aren't in the Guinness Book of Records. At the age of 16, in Middletown, he once caddied the same twosome for 144 holes of golf in a single day. Every hole was putted out. Jerry carried a full bag of clubs, from 5 a.m. to 9 p.m. The eight full rounds amounted to 35 miles of walking. He went the last four rounds barefoot.

"I also hold the milk guzzling championship of the world," he claims. "Guinness says the record is 9 seconds for guzzling a quart of milk. When I was a kid, I started out guzzling and got it down to 6 seconds."

But his passion is magic. He's seriously projecting it as a lifetime vocation when his basketball is finished. He's 32 and there isn't much longer to go to support lovely Treva and their two children.

"This is what I want to do," he says. "No one has taken magic and used it to educate youngsters. My approach is mental, not physical tricks. I've researched the field by reading many books. I've spent the past year creating new things. I'm on the verge of a major breakthrough in magic."

In the planing stage is a regular TV series which he would host.

"I could take card tricks," he says, "and teach kids the mathematical concepts involved while entertaining them. I do it with my own son, Jeff, who's 7. He already spells alphabetically — those words he can spell."

How about the stage presence of this onetime gangly, shy Ohioan?

"Oh, that's fine. I'm a ham. We're an unusual family. My great-grandfather Eli Lucas from Kentucky had 36 children."

Magic.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

MULTI-FACETED Jerry Lucas doesn't have any trouble finding things to do when he is not playing pro basketball. The New York Knicks' 6-8 center is an accomplished magician specializing in memory and card tricks, and is planning a new television magic show for children. And he also tried his fins at snorkeling recently.

3 Teams Share 'Y' Lead

Kre-Ken Patterns saw its slim lead melt into nothing last week in the second night of action for the YMCA Twilight Golf League's second half of the season. The Wednesday league was rained out this week.

Last week's leader was tied by two other teams — B&H Blueprints and Arlington Toyota — with eight points each.

Hal Petersen had the hottest putter of the night with birdies on No. 5 and 6. Bruce Berlee turned the trick at No. 10 and Rog Lietzau did the same at 12.

Ron Brink captured low gross honors with a 39. Mike Gotham was right behind with a 41. Three golfers — Petersen, Art King and Len Franklin — finished with 42s.

Howard Rover shared the low net honors with Chas Everett with 32s. Petersen just missed with a 33.

Phil Jarmack presently leads with the best won-lost record of the season — .857. Brink is just off the pace with an .850.

The auto-makers haven't done it. So we did.
They still haven't unveiled the rustproof car.

And they probably never will.
Because real rustproofing just can't be handled on an assembly line. And undercoating and ordinary rustproofing don't help either.
But at Ziebart, we use nine patented spray tools to get inside your car's body. Inside, where rust starts.
We cover every square inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make your car absolutely rustproof. Up to 35% more soundproof. And worth more money when you trade it in.
The Ziebart process is so foolproof, in fact, that we'll guarantee your new car against rust for 5 years or 50,000 miles.

Gardening For Food Is Healthy, Profitable

VEGETABLE GARDENS are in the prime time of yielding bountiful fruit now. Tomatoes, peas and corn will soon be ripe enough for even the choosiest gardner and oh, so delicious for even the most fastidious diner Soon all those tedious gardening efforts will be worth your while.

Everyone worries about reclaiming the environment, but what can the concerned individual do? In "Gardening For Food," which Charles Scribner's Sons published on July 20, ($7.95), W. G. Smith provides one solution — a return to the food growing methods of our grandparents.

"Gardening For Food" offers both a strong argument for cultivating your own food and an original approach on how to do it. W. G. Smith states that unless we turn away from the use of chemical insecticides we are headed for serious trouble. Anyone with an earth patch, even only a window box, can grow food by joining in what the author calls "survival gardening." One of the most important aspects of survival gardening is the "channeling" method which Smith advocates for growing all the nutritionally necessary food in a very limited area. By using channels on his land, the home gardener can get more food, fewer weeds, fewer calluses, and clean access to any part of the plot in any kind of weather.

Illustrated with diagrams and planting plans, "Gardening For Food" gives full cultivation directions for over fifty vegetables and herbs, as well as fruit trees, bushes and vines. The book also includes accurate charts of nutritional requirements, the nutritional components of garden foods, and lists of the climatic norms and extremes for the U.S. and Canada.

One chapter deals with pruning and training fruit trees in ornamental shapes, illustrated with diagrams. Another chapter discusses pruning and training berries.

It is interesting to note that although author Smith emphasizes organic gardening he is not opposed to using handfuls of commercial fertilizers when it is needed. "For those who find purely organic supplementation too costly or tedious, the chemical or more properly named, commercial fertilizer is the answer," writes Smith.

"Be reassured by the fact that these products are made by man in just about the same way as by nature. What has to be remembered is that although commercial fertilizers are just as safe to use as the organic, and are often more readily available to the plant, you would be ill-advised to rely exclusively upon them because, in doing so, you would be depriving the soil of the essential conditioning advantages that accompany organic fertilizing.

"A good general rule is: recycle organic material to the limit of your convenience. If this results in normal plant growth, then you are home free. If not — and this is more than likely — then have no qualms about taking up the slack with commercial fertilizer.

Born in England, W. G. Smith is a retired businessman living in Victoria, British Columbia.

Help Available

Many of the new, improved garden vegetable varieities and hybrids, were not available five, three, or even one year ago.

And home gardeners often have trouble keeping up with all the new developments. It's easy to become confused by the multitude of choices, all colorfully pictured and glowingly described in plant and seed catalogs. For example, more than 200 tomato varieites can be readily purchased and most catalogs list 20 to 30 choices. Thus, a gardener may simply settle for an "old favorite" and miss the advantages of improved varieities.

To help the home gardener, your county Extension office has a supply of up-to-date University of Illinois circulars, vegetable guides, and variety trial reports. Your adviser also has information for commercial plant growers to guide them in growing the plants that alert home gardeners will ask for.

University of Illinois Extension Circular 882, "Illinois Vegetable Garden Guide" lists the best varieites for Illinois gardens. Get your copy from your county Extension office or write to the University of Illinois Publications Office, 123 Mumford Hall, Urbana, Illinois 61801.

Good Landscaping Creates Privacy, Beauty, Livability

Whether you have only small garden space or the sweeping expanse of a suburban home, you can create real livability with good landscaping.

Plan early! Consider activities most rewarding to you and your family. If the area is large, section it off into a play or recreation area for children or adults. Plan a relaxing or entertaining area, too. In a small yard, use every inch of available space to create single activity area that can double as space for garden cookouts or cocktail parties and the scene of evening relaxation.

First consideration in landscaping is privacy. In a large yard, trees and high shrubs or hedges are most desirable. You may want an attractive fence as b a c k d r o p . Climbing roses, morning glories or sweet peas will add color to a wall or fence. Flowering shrubs, such as rhododendron or forsythia, provide an excellent transition between the height of a fence and the ground.

To partition areas effectively, use small trees or shrubs to create irregular, flowing lines; they're more interesting than straight.

Flower beds should be planned the same way. Use bright-colored flowers as focal points in various spots. Let rows bend and weave with landscaping lines.

To get maximum use from a tiny garden, consider a brick or stone patio. You can plant small shrubs, rose bushes and flowers in beds around the edges of the patio. Leave the major part of the space free for parties, barbeques, sunbathing, lounging.

Every hour and dollar invested in developing your outdoor living area will produce thousands of hours of pleasure for you, for your family and friends.

Summer Care Of Animals

Properly prepared soil, adequate moisture, wise use of fertilizer and frequent shallow cultivation (or a mulch) are essential in getting the most from your annual flowers. To ensure continuing flowering and good plan form during the entire growing season consider these additional suggestions from the DuPage County Cooperative Extension Service's Extension Adviser, W. E. Schmidt.

For prettier annuals, remove old flower heads frequently. This is necessary for good reblooming of some annuals and is especially important with snapdragons, pansies, zinnias, cosmos and tall-growing marigolds.

In other cases removing old flower stems is an endless and unnecessary job because satisfactory flowering will continue anyway. Examples are petunias, annual phlox, verbena, moss roses and dianthus.

Gardening experience will tell you when to remove old flower heads to get prolonged blooming. It's often wise to prune back long, ungainly stems of such annuals as Petunia, verbena, coleus, pansy, bells of Ireland, wax begonia, alyssum and ageratum.This helps keep the plants compact and presentable.

Petunias that become sprawling and stringy in midsummer can be cut back gradually. A few stems every few days to promote new growth at the base of the clumps. The result will be new, vigorous shoots and more compact growth. It's a quick way to rejuvenate the plants.

Some gardeners cut back their petunias all at once — just before going on vacation for example. Luxuriant new growth will occur within a few weeks and lush flowering follows.

For best performance, flowering annuals need about an inch of moisture a week. When rainfall fails to approach that amount, consider supplementary watering. Light sprinkling usually does more harm than good. The correct approach is to moisten the soil down through the root zone, using a sprinkler that applies water uniformly and in small droplets won't unduly puddle and compact the soil

What time of day to water is not critical, but you should stop early enough to let foliage dry before nightfall. Otherwise, foliar diseases are encouraged.

Soon: Movies In Your Hotel Room

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Columbia Pictures Industries Inc. has announced steps to take advantage of the potential market for cartridge video and closed-circuit television to hotel rooms.

A division of the company, Trans-World Communications, has signed an agreement to install its closed-circuit services in nine Loews hotels — seven in New York City and others in Miami Beach and Washington, D.C.

The services, which involve installations in more than 5,000 hotel rooms under the agreement, are described as follows by Columbia:

—"Tele-Theatre," which transmits current movies into individual rooms "for a fee which is added to the guest's hotel bill."

—"Tele-Ad," which sends into the rooms "a sponsored film designed to acquaint guests with the attractions of the city in which they are staying."

—"Televention," which "close-circuits into . . . rooms the various events of conventions being held at the hotel."

AS FOR ITS other step, Columbia announced earlier, with Cartridge Television Inc., "a joing venture to distribute rental videotape cartridges for individual viewers throughout the world."

Plans for the new firm, Cartridge Rental Network, called for the establishment of 51 area distributorships in the continental United States, and for movies and "other special programs" to be the initial basis of their rental libraries.

At the start, said Columbia and Cartridge Television, programming would be contained in a unit called "the Cartrivision "Red Cartridge," described as being capable to play up to 112 minutes of tape.

"The red cartridge's specially-designed locked rewind system," said the announcement, "limits customers to only one showing for each rental fee."

Among the first movies available, the announcement added, are "The Bridge on the River Kwai," "High Noon," "Dr. Strangelove," "It Happened One Night," "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner," "Hamlet," "Stagecoach," "Divorce Italian Style" and "The Quiet Man."

A STATEMENT from Columbia and Cartridge Television said that even before the new firm was formed, more than 100 companies and businesses approached them separately "to inquire about entering the cartridge rental business."

An executive for the new company said "there is no limit to the kind of retail operation that will be serviced by these distributorships. They can range from home delivery services to retail outlets and shopping centers, to concessions in department stores — and many other forms."

Sears Roebuck and Co., meanwhile, recently displayed in Los Angeles a videotape cartridge recording-playback unit that can be used at home. It records programs off the air on to a cartridge you can play back when you want to. It plays rented or purchased material. And, with an attached camera and microphone, it enables you to make home movies, also on a cartridge you can play back.

The Lighter Side

by Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There has recently been published a spate of books and articles on how to overcome your fear of flying.

One such book, appropriately titled "How to Overcome Your Fear of Flying," is particularly incisive and discerning. Its author, Dr. Marvin L. Aronson, says many cases of aerophobia have nothing to do with aviation but actually are caused by sexual hangups.

IF I UNDERSTAND him correctly, which is no better than an even money bet, it isn't necessarily the prospect of crashing that makes you dread boarding an airliner.

You may be gripping the armrest because you subconsciously associate your role as a passenger with impotence or frigidity.

And perhaps it really isn't the fear of being hijacked that makes you nervous. You really feel insecure because you fear somebody will steal your sweetheart while you are airborne.

AT ANY RATE, it's an interesting thesis and may indeed apply to many cases of aerophobia. But not to mine.

My aerophobia stems from a hangup all right, but there's nothing subconscious about it. To the contrary, I am acutely aware of it. It is induced by those airline ads that say "I'm Cheryl. Fly me."

Pictured in these ads is a stewardess with an identity crisis. The poor girl apparently imagines that she is a 707.

Hallucinogens?

Women's lib leaders protest that the stewardess is being depicted as a sex symbol. In the public mind, however, the ads create the impression that airplanes are sex symbols.

This, in turn, brings on aerophobia. For any first-year engineering student can tell you that sex symbols are aerodynamically unsound.

OR YOU CAN look it up for yourself in some encyclopedia. You will find that airworthiness depends on such factors as "thrust," "profile drag," "leading edges," "skin friction," "high-lift devices," "laminar flow," "pitch and yaw," "stabilizers" and "Bernoullie's pinricple."

Without getting too technical about it, the leading edges of the average sex symbol create an inordinate amount of laminar flow, causing excessive degrees of pitch and yaw.

Thrust can be controlled to some extent by high-lift devices, and stabilizers can be installed to moderate the profile drag.

Nevertheless, you rarely encounter a sex symbol who is compatible with Bernoulli — at least not if Bernoulli is half as principled as he would have you believe.

Summer stint for Steinberg

Like other performers tagged for a summer replacement series, comic David Steinberg is hoping that his short five-week stint will lead to even bigger and better things in the future. On our cover, young comedian Steinberg surrounds himself with pomposites, promising his show will be "outrageous, innovative comedy." The David Steinberg Show is replacing the Carol Burnett Show for five weeks, on Wednesday nights on the CBS Television Network.

If at all possible could you tell me where I can write to Maureen McCormick of THE BRADY BUNCH? When is her birthday?

H.K.

Maureen McCormick

Write wholesome beauty c/o ABC-TV, 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019. She is the youngest child and only daughter (3 brothers) of Richard and Irene McCormick. Her birthdate is August 5, 1956.

Maureen has been the 'voice' of over 25 games or toys. Since being cast as Marcia, she has cut her first album and been cover girl on "16". Among her hobbies are singing, ice skating, swimming, dancing, and playing the guitar.

I would like to know everything you can tell me about Sonny and Cher. What is their telephone number? Where can I write to be sure that they get their letters? Why are they always having reruns?

C.D.

The jolt of their disaster at Newport convinced the Bonos to launch their career in new directions. Their show is considered to be the hottest variety show of the year. After starting as a summer replacement, they feel very fortunate to have been given a full hour of prime time for their own show.

The home of the young couple is a 28 room mansion. They even have a body guard.

Off the air the Bonos are very private people. They don't drink or smoke and spend most of their free time at home with their daughter Chastity. As they put it, "We're so square, we're sickening. We always believed in morals, standards and rules and tried to live up to them. We've mellowed and are wiser." Write them c/o DeCarlo Enterprises, 8560 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Sorry no phone numbers.

Could you please print a picture of James Farentino and tell me where I could write to him? Please tell me anything you can about him?

N.A.

James Farentino

James overcame fantastic odds when he auditioned for a starring role in "The Pad". He won over 3,000 aspirants. During the last 10 years, he has had guest starring roles in virtually all of the major TV shows on both coasts.

In addition to his starring role in THE BOLD ONES, he is especially proud of the TV version of "Death of a Salesman" in which he appeared as Hap, and the first four-hour motion picture for TV, "Vanished".

He has made several appearances with his wife, Michele Lee. They make their home in Westwood, Calif. with their son, David Michael. Write to James c/o NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Larry Hovis

You may write to the zanie of LAUGH-IN c/o NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020. At the time, Larry joined LAUGH-IN's cast, he was already a regular on HOGAN'S HEROS. Can you tell me how old is Dean Martin? Where can I write to him? Please print a picture of him.

J.D.

Dean Martin

In 1941 Dean decided to quit his job and become a singer. That was in Steubenville, Ohio, where he was born (in 1917) and raised. He had pumped gas, boxed, but mainly he had earned a living by being a stickman and dealer in gambling clubs. His real name is Dino Crocetti.

In 1956, Martin severed the ten-year partnership with Jerry Lewis. Since then, he had a few lean years, but now, as we all know, he is most successful. You may write to the creator of the Ding-a-Lings c/o NBC-TV, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

Are Elizabeth and Robert Montgomery related? How old are they?

P.W.

They most certainly are related. At one time Elizabeth called Robert, "Daddy". Perhaps now she calls him just Dad or Father. Get the picture? Robert is 29 years older than is Elizabeth. He was born in 1904. That makes her 39. Can you figure his age?

Uncle Milty blends special

Milton Berle invented the variety show format on television more than 20 years ago. His latest, "The Milton Berle Show," which will be colorcast on Channel 9 Saturday, July 29th at 8 p.m., is a product of that format using the formula "big, fast, funny and musical."

Musically, there's pianist Roger Williams who plays "Cumana" and "The Ballad of the Piano."

THE YOUNG Americans, almost 40 strong, inject the "big" into things with powerful renditions of "76 Trombones," an "Oklahoma" medley, "Easy," and "People."

The pace is fast but not as quick as The Little Step Brothers, who, like their namesakes, acrobatically tap dance at Mach speeds, including the "Challenge."

Then there's "Uncle Milty" himself who blends the "funny" into it all.

FOR OPENERS, Berle appears as Charlie Chaplin, Sophie Tucker and Helen Morgan during Williams' "The Ballad of the Piano." Then, with The Young Americans accompanying him, Berle proceeds to comedic opera for his version of classics, i.e.' "Aida" and "Pagliacci."

'I've seen some weird things

A post-view of the All-Star game from one who knows

Harry Coyle has directed coverage of 21 All-Star baseball games, and has seen them from all angles, from flickering black and white to instant replay in magnificent color.

Yet the veteran of NBC Sports claims he is not a fan. He can't afford to be. And what goes for him goes double for his cameramen.

ACCORDING to Coyle, a cameraman who is a fan during working hours can be as embarrassing as a bartender with a yen for the merchandise.

"IT happened in one of the first All-Star games I directed," the veteran recalled. "There's this ball hit toward the stands. It was obvious it was going to make it into the seats for a home run. Suddenly, all I got on the screen was a beautiful patch of grass. Instead of following the path of the ball the cameraman became a fan. He deserted the camera and tried to catch the ball."

Coyle admits there is little chance of that happening now. In the first place, cameramen are more sophisticated now than they were some 20 years ago. Secondly, camera positions no longer are found in the stands nestled among the paying customers.

As far as we know neither big John Wayne nor the little baby duck will appear on the new summer series, The John Byner Comedy Hour beginning August 1. But, Byner does such a great impression of both of them that you may think that you saw them before the five week series runs out. Byner does great impressions, comedy, sings, and plays musical instruments, which may be why Glenco Productions picked him to finish the summer for them in the Glen Campbell slot.

Fannie's Carefree Experiences

(Editor's Note: This week's column was written by Managing Editor Karen Johnson, following an interview with Fannie Flagg in Chicago.)

How carefree is Carefree?

"It's as carefree as you can possibly want to get," says actress Fannie Flagg, who occupies 'Mike' Preston's chair on The New Dick Van Dyke Show on CBS. The program, you see, is filmed in Carefree, Arizona.

FANNIE, A redhead with a 'friendly puppy' type personality has had a fun time from the moment she arrived in Arizona and was driven out into the desert on a bus. Thinking the whole thing was planned as a "clever joke" by Van Dyke, she laughed all the way out...and kept on laughing when she found out that the desert location was 'for real.'

A non-stop talker and eager to please gal, she has that special knack for making one feel like an old high school chum as she tosses the pieces of her life up in the air to everyone's amusement.

Fannie Flagg: enjoying her role on Dick Van Dyke's show.

"I was the only student in my ballet school to fail," Fannie offers. And, then in way of explanation, she tells all, "I was so nearsighted I broke three mirrors when I leaned into the bar and twirled."

GETTING A laugh on that, the girl who keeps her television momma informed as to what brother, Dick Preston (Dick Van Dyke), is doing, charges ahead. Question: Weren't you a participant in the Miss Alabama Pageant? Answer: "For seven years! And once I even came close to winning!"

It was a short romp from the pageant ramp to Birmingham, Ala. where Miss Flagg got her first taste of television. "Those were the days," Fannie insists "when nobody famous came to Birmingham...they just marched through. The biggest interview I did," she confesses, was the cameraman's mother.." Then throwing one arm up in the air, ala traffic cop, she blurts out, "Oh, I did talk to the King Sisters on the phone!"

Next stop on the 'Flagg' trip was Candid Camera where Fannie started out writing and ended up with daily duties such as driving through bank walls. "And there I was....I had 'broke the bank'..." she says shaking her head..."and the teller looked at me and said, 'Do you have a deposit?' "

Troubles? Not for Fannie. She makes the best out of whatever comes along. Now at home in Scottsdale, Arizona with Mr. Bruce her cat (who was retired from the Van Dyke show after biting Hope Lange) "You won't be seeing him this year," laughs his mistress," life is carefree!

Carefree? Almost. The road from Scottsdale to the studio is an 'open range.' "You don't worry about hitting other cars," she says, "just cows." And if you hit one, you have to pay for it. And, you don't even get to take it home and eat it. That's the one thing," she said nodding her head, "that I have trouble with....the cows."
